Thinking Through Craft:

Thinking Through Craft Glenn Adamson, 2007-10 This book provides an introduction to the way that artists working in all media think about craft Dispensing with clichéd arguments that craft is art Adamson persuasively makes a case for defining craft in a more nuanced fashion

Thinking Through Craft Glenn Adamson, 2007 The Invention of Craft Glenn Adamson, 2013-04-01 Glenn Adamson's last book Thinking Through Craft offered an influential account of craft's position within modern and contemporary art Now in his engaging sequel The Invention of Craft his theoretical discussion of skilled work is extended back in time and across numerous disciplines Adamson searches out the origins of modern craft locating its emergence in the period of the industrial revolution He demonstrates how craft was invented as industry's other a necessary counterpart to ideas of progress and upheaval In the process the magical and secretive culture of artisans was gradually dominated through division and explication This left craft with an oppositional stance a traditional or anti-modern position The Invention of Craft ranges widely across media from lock making wood carving and iron casting to fashion architecture and design It also moves back and forth between periods from the 18th century to the present day demonstrating how contemporary practice can be informed through the study of modern craft in its moment of invention

The Thinking University Søren S.E. Bengtsen, Ronald Barnett, 2018-04-27 This book reinvigorates the philosophical treatment of the nature purpose and meaning of thought in today's universities The wider discussion about higher education has moved from a philosophical discourse to a discourse on social welfare and service economics and political agendas This book reconnects philosophy with the central academic concepts of thought reason and critique and their associated academic practices of thinking and reasoning Thought in this context should not be considered as a merely mental or cognitive construction still less a cloistered college but a fully developed individual and social engagement of critical reflection and discussion with the current pressing disciplinary political and philosophical issues The editors hold that the element of thought and the ability to think in a deep and groundbreaking way is still the essence of the university But what does it mean to think in the university today And in what ways is thought related not only to the epistemological and ontological issues of philosophical debate but also to the social and political dimensions of our globalised age In many countries the state is imposing limitations on universities dismissing or threatening academics who speak out critically With this volume the editors ask questions such as What is the value of thought What is the university's proper relationship to thought To give the notion of thought a thorough philosophical treatment the book is divided into three parts The focus moves from an epistemological perspective in Part I to a focus on existence and values in higher education in Part II and then to a societal oriented focus on the university in Part III All three parts in their own ways debate the notion of thought in higher education and the university as a thinking form of being

The Journal of Modern Craft Volume 6 Issue 1 Edward S. Cooke, Jr.,2013-03-01 The Journal of Modern Craft is the first peer reviewed academic journal to provide an interdisciplinary and international forum in its subject area It addresses all forms of making that self consciously set themselves apart from mass production whether in the making of designed objects artworks buildings or other artefacts The journal covers craft in all its historical and contemporary manifestations from the mid nineteenth century when handwork was first consciously framed in opposition to industrialization through to the present day when ideas once confined to the applied arts have come to seem vital across a huge range of cultural activities Special emphasis is placed on studio practice and on the transformations of indigenous forms of craft activity throughout the world The journal also reviews and analyses the relevance of craft within new media folk art architecture design contemporary art and other fields The Journal of Modern Craft is the main scholarly voice on the subject of craft conceived both as an idea and as a field of practice in its own right

Choosing Craft Vicki Halper, Diane Douglas, 2009 Choosing Craft explores the history and practice of American craft through the words of influential artists whose lives work and ideas have shaped the field Editors Vicki Halper and Diane Douglas construct an anecdotal narrative that examines the post World War II development of modern craft which came of age alongside modernist painting and sculpture and was greatly influenced by them as well as by traditional and industrial practices The anthology is organized according to four activities that ground a professional life in craft inspiration training economics and philosophy Halper and Douglas mined a wide variety of sources for their material including artists published writings letters journal entries exhibition statements lecture notes and oral histories The detailed record they amassed reveals craft's dynamic relationships with painting sculpture design industry folk and ethnic traditions hobby craft and political and social movements Collectively these reflections form a social history of craft Choosing Craft ultimately offers artists writings and recollections as vital and vivid data that deserve widespread study as a primary resource for those interested in the American art form

Craft Objects, Aesthetic Contexts Sandra Corse, 2009 Craft Objects Aesthetic Contexts examines the place of contemporary craft in traditional aesthetics Though philosophers have usually either ignored craft or denigrated it as mechanical and unimaginative a careful examination of their comments often indicates that they nevertheless took a lively interest in several important issues facing craft artists today Although Kant is famous for emphasizing that aesthetic judgments must be pure and therefore concern themselves with objects that have no useful purpose he took this position simply to clarify his argument and in fact many of his examples involve objects we would today consider craft such as furniture and even decorative wallpaper Similarly Heidegger and Adorno have been valued largely for their interest in complex and influential art objects but their comments on art also frequently address issues central to craft especially the significance of history functionality techniques and materials This book examines these comments in order to begin a process of appreciating how philosophical aesthetics as practiced by these important writers can contribute to our analysis of contemporary craft
