

The Yellow Wallpaper

1. In Gilman's "The Yellow Wallpaper" the narrator makes constant reference to the paper's pattern. What does the pattern symbolize?

1. What does the yellow wallpaper come to mean to the narrator?
2. What role does the yellow wallpaper play in the story?
3. Why does she spend so much time studying the pattern?
4. Look at the adjectives that Gilman uses to describe the wallpaper as a symbol and decide how the character of the narrator is tied to the descriptions of the wallpaper.
5. Provide textual evidence to support your ideas.

2. How does the changing description of the wallpaper reflect the narrator's changing character?

3. Why doesn't she let her husband (or some other family)

4. Think about the structure and content of the mansion. How is the mansion symbolic of something greater than itself?

5. How does Gilman use changes in language, diction, tone, to reflect the narrator's shift from seeming sanity to madness?

6. At one point the narrator refers to her, "Because he is so well and because he looks the so," the you feel funny to read and boring? Give specific examples from the text to support your views.

7. List some instances of contradictory comments about the narrator's room and/or situation.

8. What word is used throughout the story with the repetition and use of the word "creep"? Does this ever change?

9. Looking at the minor characters, analyze the view of women during this time period. Use the text to support your ideas, supplying specific examples.

10. Which is more responsible for the narrator's psychological decline or the social demands she faces?

11. As a reader, do you sympathize with this woman's situation? Is the narrator's punishment justified or does another aspect of her delusion?

12. Does her one person best companion, not the narrator's ultimate madness of her, win? If not, what or what combination of factors result in her decline?

13. In the introduction of the story, windows and doors are mentioned. How can we make the connection between these elements of doors and the yellow wallpaper?

14. Consider the primary metaphor of the story. How might readers view there an extension of our yellow wallpaper to a separation with it only to finally become trapped behind it--a victim of our/their own obsession?
