P. McGregor,1971 Journal of English Studies ,1992 Literacy

and Learning in the Content Areas Sharon Kane, 2017-07-05 The 3rd Edition of Literacy Learning in the Content Areas helps readers build the knowledge, motivation, tools, and confidence they need as they integrate literacy into their middle and high school content area classrooms. Its unique approach to teaching content area literacy actively engages preservice and practicing teachers in reading and writing and the very activities that they will use to teach literacy to their own students in middle and high school classrooms. Rather than passively learning about strategies for incorporating content area literacy activities, readers get hands-on experience in such techniques as mapping, webbing, anticipation guides, booktalks, class websites, and journal writing and reflection. Readers also learn how to integrate children's and young adult literature, primary sources, biographies, essays, poetry, and online content communities and websites into their classrooms. Each chapter offers concrete teaching examples and practical suggestions to help make literacy relevant to students' content area learning. Author Sharon Kane demonstrates how relevant reading, writing, speaking, listening, and visual learning activities can improve learning in content area subjects and at the same time help readers meet national content knowledge standards and benchmarks.

Resources in Education, 1992 Africana Journal, 1980 Cornell University Courses of Study Cornell University, 2005 The African Novel and the Modernist Tradition David I. Ker, 1998 The African Novel and the Modernist Tradition challenges the general thinking that what is European and American is uniquely different from what is African. The book examines key African novels side by side with British and American modernist novels. Through this comparative study, it demonstrates the manner in which several African novelists have taken full advantage of the experimentation that modernism offers to tackle their own crisis of culture. This study shows that African novelists clearly understand what modernism is and employ to advantage its consciousness of disorder, despair, and anarchy. The African Novel and the Modernist Tradition is thus able to conclude that the African novel is part of a larger fictional universe.

English Journal, 1999 World Literature Criticism, 1500 to the Present James P. Draper, 1992-08 Critical excerpts about writers from 1500 to the present World Literature Criticism James P. Draper, 1992 Contains articles that provide a selection of criticism of works by thirty-nine major writers of the past five centuries, covering a range of countries and cultures, each with a biographical and critical introduction and a list of principal works. Arranged alphabetically from Achebe to Cather.

Achebe's World Robert M. Wren, 1980 This volume places each of Achebe's first four novels—Things Fall Apart, No Longer at Ease, Arrow of God, and A Man of Peace—in its historical context. The author contrasts the content of the works with what might have been actual events or practices during Nigeria's colonial occupation.
