This Way To The Revolution A Memoir:

This Way to the Revolution Erin Pizzey, 2011-06-30 First full biography of an international figure recently in the news after her successful libel case against Andrew Marry who described her as a terrorist in The Making of Modern Britain Internationally famous for starting one of the first women's refuges in the modern world Erin Pizzey is a controversial but hugely respected activist with enemies on the left and the right a pioneering figure in the maelstrom of seventies politics and a key witness of the era Here she tells her story in full for the first time The daughter of a diplomat Erin Pizzey was born in China in 1939 One of her formative experiences was seeing her parents and brother being put under house arrest by the Maoists in 1949 This instilled a hatred of totalitarian regimes and for a short time Pizzey even worked for MI6 in Hong Kong Once relocated in the UK Pizzey was soon swept up by sixties radicalism and the early days of the emerging Women's Liberation Movement Opening a small community center for maltreated women in Chiswick in 1971 was to bring Pizzey to the front line of what was becoming a national issue in a time when feminists were still treated with hostility and derision by right wing figures but also when left wing radicals scorned anyone like Pizzey who put humanity before ideology By the mid 1970s Pizzey found herself under bomb threat and picketed by feminists for allowing men to staff refuges this led to a long exile from the UK where she kept up her activities and achieved international recognition while also reinventing herself as a best selling writer Erin Pizzey's life and trials have been unique her story is a compelling one vital to any understanding of a more revolutionary age and burning issues that still resonate today

Censorship and the Limits of the Literary Nicole Moore, 2015-08-27 Though literature and censorship have been conceived as long time adversaries this collection seeks to understand the degree to which they have been dialectical terms each producing the other coeval and mutually constitutive On the one hand literary censorship has been posited as not only inescapable but definitive even foundational to speech itself One the other especially after the opening of the USSR's spekstrahn those enormous collections of literature forbidden under the Soviets the push to redefine censorship expansively has encountered cogent criticism Scholars describing the centralised control of East German print publication for example have wanted to insist on the difference of pre publication state censorship from more mundane forms of speech regulation in democracies Work on South African apartheid censorship and book banning in colonial countries also demonstrates censorship's formative role in the institutional structures of literature beyond the metropole Censorship and the Limits of the Literary examines these and other developments across twelve countries from the Enlightenment to the present day offering case studies from the French revolution to Internet China Is literature ever without censorship Does censorship need the literary In a globalizing era for culture does censorship represent the final failed version of national control

Memoir of Fleeming Jenkin F.R.S., L.L.D* Robert Louis Stevenson,1907 Popular Memories of the Mao Era Sebastian Veg,2019-01-10 The present volume provides an overview of new forms of popular memory in particular critical memory of the Mao era Focusing on the processes of private production public dissemination and social sanctioning of narratives of the past in contemporary China it examines the relation between popular memories and their social construction as historical knowledge The three parts of the book are devoted to the shifting boundary between private and public in the press and media the reconfiguration of elite and popular discourses in cultural productions film visual art and literature and the emergence of new discourses of knowledge through innovative readings of unofficial sources Popular memories pose a challenge to the existing historiography of the first thirty years of the People s Republic of China Despite the recent backlash these more critical reflections are beginning to transform the mainstream narrative of the Mao era in China Public discussions of key episodes in the history of the People s Republic in particular the Anti Rightist Movement of 1957 the Great Famine of 1959 1961 and the Cultural Revolution have proliferated in the last fifteen years These discussions are qualitatively different from previous expressions of traumatic or nostalgic memories of Mao in the 1980s and the 1990s respectively They reflect a growing dissatisfaction with the authoritarian control over history exercised by the Chinese state and often they make use of the new spaces provided for counter hegemonic narratives by social media and the growing private economy in the 2000s Unofficial or independent journals self published books social media groups independent documentary films private museums oral history projects and archival research by amateur historians all of which analyzed in this collection have contributed to these embryonic public or semi public dialogues An excellent guide to the independent journalism cultural production and amateur histories that are transforming the mainstream narrative of the Mao era in China Rich in detail and sound in analysis these studies document the emergence of critical memory in Chinese society A valuable resource for students and scholars Timothy Cheek University of British Columbia author of The Intellectual in Modern Chinese History Popular memories of the Mao era are signposts of contemporary politics and culture This volume features exciting new research by distinguished scholars Extremely rich and readable the chapters in this collection illuminate both China s past and present A timely and important contribution Guobin Yang University of Pennsylvania author of The Red Guard Generation and Political Activism in China Encyclopedia of Diasporas Melvin Ember,Carol R. Ember,Ian Skoggard,2004-11-30 Immigration is a topic that is as important among anthropologists as it is the general public Almost every culture has experienced adaptation and assimilation when immigrating to a new country and culture usually leaving for what is perceived as a better life Not only does this diaspora change the country of adoption but also the country of origin Many large nations in the world have absorbed and continue to absorb large numbers of immigrants The foreseeable future will see a continuation of large scale immigration as many countries experience civil war and secessionist pressures Currently there is no reference work that describes the impact upon the immigrants and the immigrant societies relevant to the world's cultures and provides an overview of important topics in the world's diasporas. The encyclopedia consists of two volumes covering three main sections. Diaspora Overviews covers over 20 ethnic groups that have experienced voluntary or forced immigration. These essays discuss the history behind the social, economic, and political reasons for leaving the original countries and the cultures in the new places. Topics discusses the impact and assimilation that the immigrant cultures experience in their adopted cultures, including the arts they bring, the struggles they face, and some of the cities that are in the forefront of receiving immigrant cultures. Diaspora Communities include over 60 portraits of specific diaspora communities. Each portrait follows a standard outline to facilitate comparisons. The Encyclopedia of Diasporas can be used both to gain a general understanding of immigration and immigrants and to find out about particular cultures, topics, and communities. It will prove of great value to researchers and students, curriculum developers, teachers, and government officials. It brings together the disciplines of anthropology, social studies, political studies, international studies, and immigrant and immigration studies.

Memoirs of Prince Metternich, 1773-1815 Clemens Wenzel Lothar Metternich (Fürst von), Alfons Freiherr von Klinkowström, 1970 Historic Homes and Places and Genealogical and Personal Memoirs Relating to the Families of Middlesex County, Massachusetts William Richard Cutter, 1908 Negative Exposures Margaret Hillenbrand, 2020-03-06

When nations decide to disown their troubled pasts, how does this strategic disavowal harden into social fact? In Negative Exposures, Margaret Hillenbrand investigates the erasure of key aspects of such momentous events as the Nanjing Massacre, the Cultural Revolution, and the Tiananmen Square protests from the Chinese historical consciousness, not due to amnesia or censorship, but through the operations of public secrecy. Knowing what not to know, she argues, has many stakeholders willing and otherwise who keep quiet to protect themselves or their families out of shame, pragmatism, or the palliative effects of silence. Hillenbrand shows how secrecy works as a powerful structuring force in Chinese society, one hiding in plain sight and identifies aesthetic artifacts that serve as modes of reckoning against this phenomenon. She analyses the proliferation of photo forms, remediations of well-known photographs of troubling historical events rendered in such media as paint, celluloid, fabric, digital imagery, and tattoos as imaginative spaces in which the shadows of secrecy are provocatively outlined.

A Moscow Literary Memoir R. A. D. Ford, 1995 In this literary memoir, which spans the period between the mid 1940s and the early 1980s, R. A. D. Ford shares his long-standing fascination with the Russian people, expanding on his political memoir Our Man in Moscow. From totalitarian repression to life and art in the splintered, chaotic ruins of a superpower, A Moscow Literary Memoir offers a unique perspective on Soviet life from a man who has spent more time in Russia than any other Western diplomat.
