One Thousand Secrets of Wise and Rich Men Revealed C. A. Bogardus, 2023-04-10 Agesilaus king of Sparta being asked what things he thought most proper for boys to learn replied Those things which they should practice when they become men His reply was in perfect harmony with the good judgment of mankind and cannot fail to be appreciated by all who have good common sense If Agesilaus lived at the present time the question would most probably have included both boys and girls and undoubtedly his reply would be so worded as to apply to men and women Mankind especially of the United States has two great duties First that of self support and education Second that of governmental support and national enlightenment While I have thus divided man's responsibility in two parts it might not be improper to obliterate the dividing line and say that man's duties are all under one comprehensive head viz Mankind's duty is to man However in the preparation of this volume the dividing line is recognized and two general departments are presented that of domestic or household economy and national or political economy The former department is a compilation of useful household formulas so arranged and worded as to form a neat and concise household receipt book Frequent reference to its pages will impart such information as will enable the reader to save money and at the same time enjoy life Department number two treats on social questions that are now knocking at humanity's intellectual threshold for admission and solution Records show that less than one thirtieth part of the time of man in general is consumed in productive pursuits yet some people toil diligently three fifths of their time and receive only a scanty living To assist in making clear the road to private and national prosperity is therefore the motive which actuates me in the publication of this book The Publishers Weekly, 1926 One Thousand Secrets of Wise and Rich Men Revealed C.
