our dominant cultural condition This volume argues that metamodernism has brought with it a new kind of creative modality in which the divide between the digital and non digital is no longer binary and oppositional Jordan explores the emerging poetics of this inherently transmedial and hybridic postdigital condition through a detailed analysis of hypertextual locative mobile and collaborative storytelling With a focus on twenty first century storytelling including print based and nondigital art forms the book ultimately widens our understanding of the modes and forms of metamodernist creativity Postdigital Storytelling is of value to anyone engaged in creative writing within the arts and humanities This includes scholars students and practitioners of both physical and digital texts as well as those engaged in interdisciplinary practice based research in which storytelling remains a primary approach More Than Meets the Eye Robert John Rehak, 2018-03-13 Introduction Seeing past the state of the art That which survives design networks and blueprint culture between fandom and franchise Used universes and immaculate realities appropriation and authorship in the age of previz Chains of evidence augmented performance before and after the digital Microgenres in migration special effects and transmedia travel Conclusion The effects of special effects Young People's Civic Identity in the Digital Age Julianne K. Viola, 2020-03-10 This book explores young people's civic experiences in contemporary American society and how they navigate the political world in an era defined by digital media Drawing on the experiences of young people before they have reached voting age the book provides vital perspectives on citizenship and civic engagement of a part of the population that is often overlooked The author engages with the tensions young people encounter in their everyday personal and civic lives particularly in their understanding and experience of civic identity in ways that are shaped by society's misperceptions of youth The book introduces a new framework of civic identity that has been directly informed by the lived civic experiences of young people themselves The findings will be of great interest to researchers and students working in political science sociology youth studies education studies and media studies as well as policy makers practitioners and parents of young people The West and the Word Steffen Wöll, 2020-10-12 Western expansion in North America has mainly been described as either a linear sequence energized by nineteenth century nation building processes at a moving frontier or as the practice of settler colonialism and its exploitation of resources and displacement of nonwhite peoples This book suggests that shifting the focus from this binary pattern towards spatial imaginations and spatialization processes a new theoretical framework developed at SFB 1199 provides novel insights into the placemaking dynamics of the American West It brings to light a discursive diversity that often contradicts unidirectional interpretive patterns It becomes clear that while some discourses solidified into spatial metanarratives like the character shaping clash of civilizations at the frontier or manifest destiny alternative spatial imaginations exist juxtaposed to or obfuscated by canonical interpretations Making use of a variety of sources including works of literature poetry newspapers paintings and speeches to access spatialization processes on several sociocultural scales the book presents a careful exploration of the parameters that informed the creation affirmation and subversion of

Oceanic Becoming Rob Wilson, 2025-02-14
From disappearing coral reefs and ocean acidification to floating great garbage patches, the Pacific Ocean is an ever-present reminder of the Anthropocene. In Oceanic Becoming, Rob Wilson demonstrates that in the midst of the planetary crises, the Pacific now faces it must be understood as interconnected to the other oceans. Wilson frames this interconnection as Oceania reconceiving the world oceans as tied to sites of urban dwelling and life sustenance from Boston to Brisbane that are increasingly threatened by late capitalism. Confronting these threats, Wilson argues requires a project he theorizes as worlding, a process of world making and world remaking across Oceania that would create new forms of belonging and connection at local, regional, and transnational levels. Wilson shows how Oceania is not just a site of peril but one charged with emergent literary and social formations that can provide the basis for new solidarities, futures, and ecologies.
