Howard M. Wasserman

University Of Limpopo Undergraduate Prospectus 2015:

Technofeminist Storiographies Kristine L. Blair, 2018-12-20 Technofeminist Storiographies Women Information Technology and Cultural Representation analyzes both historical and contemporary accounts of women's lived experiences of technology from Ada Lovelace and Hedy Lamarr to women working across the tech industry today and juxtaposes them with larger cultural representations of women and technology. The book explores both the relationship between gender and technology and the cultural contexts that enable and constrain that relationship, questions that call for opportunities for women to share their lived experiences and to have such experiences represented across media genres. Despite the rich complex stories and histories women have with technology as programmers, inventors, and workers, media throughout history, including film, television, games, toys, children's books, and biographies, often inadequately and inaccurately represent them. Throughout the book, Kristine Blair chronicles the portrayal of the relationship between women and information technology across these media genres. Inevitably, the societal conditions that surround technology use, including portrayal through popular media, impact the extent to which women and girls gain and maintain access within those cultural contexts. This book calls for a more visible history of women's technological achievements in which their stories are heard for generations to come rather than be forgotten and unknown.

Essentials of Medicinal and Aromatic Crops Muhammad Zia-Ul-Haq, Arwa Abdulkreem AL-Huqail, Muhammad Riaz, Umar Farooq Gohar, 2023-10-09 Medicinal and aromatic crops (MACs) are high value crops since the natural products obtained from them are low volume high value commodities that have numerous applications in various sectors such as the food, beverage, food supplement, flavor, and fragrance, perfumery, and cosmetics, pharmaceutical, and aromatherapy industries. In addition, the plant biomass is used in the production of teas and medical applications in traditional and also modern medicines. MACs are important mainly because they contain plant secondary metabolites such as essential oils, alkaloids, glycosides, saponins, tannins, vitamins, and other bioactives. Plant secondary metabolites are differentiated from plant primary metabolites of photosynthesis and respiration since they are directly involved in growth and development of plants. Some MACs are used as spices and culinary herbs since they contain mainly essential oils and are used as tonic to the digestive system, appetite modification, and other systems and may facilitate nutrient uptake and utilization from various foods. A significant amount of MACs and their natural products have also demonstrated antimicrobial, antifungal, and bactericidal activity and significant antioxidant capacity. In the past, MACs and their natural products have been used as a source for various medicines in food and beverage production and in aroma products. Essentials of Medicinal and Aromatic Crops summarizes the current knowledge on medicinal and aromatic crops, including the agronomical practices of important MACs and their products, their beneficial effects, and utilization of MAP and their products. The chapters provide a comprehensive guide to the most important and used medicinal and aromatic crops and their use in functional foods, nutraceuticals, and as bioactives against various ailments, providing researchers, teachers, chemists food scientists agronomists and agroecologists in academia industry and government a fully up to date singular source on this important topic
