Working-Class Community in the Age of Affluence Stefan Ramsden, 2017-02-24 It has appeared to many commentators that the most fundamental change in what it is meant to be working class in twentieth century Britain came not as a result of war or of want but of prosperity. Social investigators documented how the relative affluence of the 1950s and 1960s improved the material conditions of life for working class Britons whilst eroding their commitment to the shared life of traditional communities. Utilising an oral history case study of sociability and identity in the Yorkshire town of Beverley between the end of the Second World War and the election of Margaret Thatcher's government, Working Class Community in the Age of Affluence challenges this influential narrative. An introductory essay outlines how sociologists and historians understood the complex social, cultural and economic changes of the post-war decades through the prism of affluence and traces how these changes came to be seen as deleterious to the traditional working class community. The book then proceeds thematically, exploring change across areas of social life including family, neighbourhood, workplace and associational life. This book represents the first sustained historical analysis of change and continuity in working class community living during the age of affluence. It suggests not only that older social practices persisted but also that new patterns of sociability could strengthen as much as undermine community. Ultimately, Working Class Community in the Age of Affluence asks us to rethink assumptions about the decline of local solidarities in this pivotal period and to recognise community as a key feature of working class life across the twentieth century.

Cultures of Eschatology Veronika Wieser, Vincent Eltschinger, Johann Heiss, 2020-07-20 In all religions in the medieval West as in the East, ideas about the past, the present and the future were shaped by expectations related to the End. The volumes Cultures of Eschatology explore the many ways apocalyptic thought and visions of the end intersected with the development of pre-modern religious, political communities with social changes and with the emergence of new intellectual and literary traditions. The two volumes present a wide variety of case studies from the early Christian communities of Antiquity through the times of the Islamic invasion and the Crusades and up to modern receptions from the Latin West to the Byzantine Empire, from South Yemen to the Hidden Lands of Tibetan Buddhism. Examining apocalypticism, messianism and eschatology in medieval Christian, Islamic, Hindu and Buddhist communities, the contributions paint a multi-faceted picture of End Time scenarios and provide their readers with a broad array of source material from different historical contexts. The first volume, Empires and Scriptural Authorities, examines the formation of literary and visual apocalyptic traditions and the role they played as vehicles for defining a community's religious and political enemies. The second volume, Time, Death and Afterlife, focuses on key topics of eschatology: death, judgment, afterlife and the perception of time and its end. It also analyses modern readings and interpretations of eschatological concepts.

Selling Sex in the City: A Global History of Prostitution, 1600s-2000s, 2017-08-28 Selling Sex in the City offers a worldwide analysis of prostitution since 1600. It analyses more than 20 cities with an important sex industry and compares policies and social trends coercion and agency but also prostitutes working and living conditions
