Polarization, Populism, and the New Politics Banu Baybars, Sarphan Uzunoğlu, 2019-09-27 Populism is one of the most frequently used terms in today s political discussions From Turkey to the United States of America the effect of populist politicians is felt more than ever today Indeed it is an extremely common occurrence to come across a political commentator defining a politician as a populist in newspapers or TV shows This volume brings together scholars from various disciplines and invites its readers to consider the role played by both conventional and new media in the rise of this political movement Its focus is not limited to the USA nor the UK but investigates populism in countries such as Turkey and Spain It will appeal to readers interested in classical populism and polarization studies as well as those interested in post truth studies

Gender, Health and Healthcare Jacqueline H. Watts, 2016-03-09 Health status and the experience of working in health care roles are both strongly shaped by gender and although there have been attempts to incorporate gender awareness in both health and employment policies the significance of gender in these areas continues to be marginalised within public debates and academic discourses Taking a social constructionist perspective Watts considers the ways in which gender impacts upon health in all its elements including access technology professionalisation health promotion and health as an important sector of the labour market She discusses gender as a developing and diversified category exploring ideas about masculinity and the fluidity of gender boundaries in determining individual identity Chapters that follow discuss men s and women s health ideology of gender and health specifically exploring different social norms and ideas about male and female health and the dominant ideological association between femaleness and caring working for health with particular focus on the gendered interplay of caring and curing roles technology and changes to gender health and healthcare health promotion as a gendered activity and finally the importance of introducing an intersectional approach beyond gender to articulate a deeper understanding of health in a postmodern context The concluding chapter draws together these themes to underscore the importance of placing gender at the centre of health and health care delivery to fully take account of both the different life and health experiences of men and women and the gendered dimensions of working in health care
