Food Chains: Quality, Safety and Efficiency in a Challenging World George Baourakis, Prodromos Kalaitzis, Konstadinos Mattas, 2014-01-02 Food Chains Quality Safety and Efficiency in a Challenging World addresses the many issues facing European food producers and other food chain stakeholders who endeavour to improve their competitive position in a highly competitive world food market The Food Chain is one of the main economic pillars in Europe providing employment and opportunities for economic development in rural areas It is therefore imperative to continuously monitor the changes that affect the sector in order to allow stakeholders to respond promptly and effectively to the new market conditions Adjusting to the new market involves new technology globalization demographic and social changes within a challenging market

environment In order to adopt these new market parameters food chain stakeholders need to adapt their activities in order to gain in terms of effectiveness and efficiency This book was originally published as a special issue of Food Economics Acta Agriculture Scandinavica Section C

Research Methods for Anthropological Studies of Food and Nutrition Janet Chrzan, John Brett, 2017-02-01 The dramatic increase in all things food in popular and academic fields during the last two decades has generated a diverse and dynamic set of approaches for understanding the complex relationships and interactions that determine how people eat and how diet affects culture These volumes offer a comprehensive reference for students and established scholars interested in food and nutrition research in Nutritional and Biological Anthropology Archaeology Socio Cultural and Linguistic Anthropology Food Studies and Applied Public Health

States of Discipline Cemal Burak Tansel, 2017-02-08 Despite the severity of the global economic crisis and the widespread aversion towards austerity policies neoliberalism remains the dominant mode of economic governance in the world What makes neoliberalism such a resilient mode of economic and political governance How does neoliberalism effectively reproduce itself in the face of popular opposition States of Discipline offers an answer to these questions by highlighting the ways in which today s neoliberalism reinforces and relies upon coercive practices that marginalize discipline and control social groups Such practices range from the development of market oriented policies through legal and administrative reforms at the local and national level to the coercive apparatuses of the state that repress the social forces that oppose various aspects of neoliberalization The book argues that these practices are built on the pre existing infrastructure of neoliberal governance which strive towards limiting the spaces of popular resistance through a set of administrative legal and coercive mechanisms Exploring a range of case studies from across the world the book uses authoritarian neoliberalism as a conceptual prism to shed light on the institutionalization and employment of state practices that invalidate public input and silence popular resistance

Reimagining Marginalized Foods Elizabeth Finnis, 2012-11-01 With globalization has come an increased focus on food where it comes from how it is transported who eats it and what cultural significance it has This volume brings together ethnographically based anthropological analyses of shifting meanings and representations associated with the foods ingredients and cooking practices of marginalized and or indigenous cultures Contributors are particularly interested in how these foods intersect with politics nationhood and governance identity authenticity and conservation The chapters cover diverse locales issues and foods the cultural meanings of sinonggi a thick sago porridge from Sulawesi Indonesia the significance of pom a Surinam dish popular in the Netherlands the transformation of alpaca meat in Peru the impact of culinary tourism on indigenous cuisine in Mexico the re presenting of minor millets in South India and the development of cheeses in the Italian Alps A conceptual essay on food and social boundaries rounds out the collection Throughout the contributors address important questions including How are traditional foods repackaged in the process of mainstreaming access What does this repackaging mean for the ways local or indigenous peoples view their traditional food practices How are local cuisines mobilized in movements to create national images and identities What tensions emerge between new representations of foods and local cultural meanings Together the contributors provide a thoughtful inquiry into what happens when food and culinary practices are moved from the cultural or physical margins and how such movements can be shaped by and employed in the pursuit of political social and cultural goals 'Going Native?' Ronald Ranta,Alejandro Colás,Daniel Monterescu,2022-07-21 This volume offers a comparative survey of diverse settler colonial experiences in relation to food food culture and foodways how the latter are constructed maintained revolutionised and in some cases dissolved What do settler colonial foodways and food cultures look like Are they based on an imagined colonial heritage do they embrace indigenous repertoires or invent new hybridised foodscapes What are the socio economic and political dynamics of these cultural transformations In particular this volume focuses on three key issues the evolution of settler colonial identities and states their relations vis vis indigenous populations and settlers self indigenisation the process through which settlers transform themselves into the native population at least in their own eyes These three key issues are crucial in understanding settler indigenous relations and the rise of settler colonial identities and states Food Health Janet Chrzan,John Brett,2017-02-01 Nutritional Anthropology and public health research and programming have employed similar methodologies for decades many anthropologists are public health practitioners while many public health practitioners have been trained as medical or biological anthropologists Recognizing such professional connections this volume provides in depth analysis and comprehensive review of methods necessary to design plan implement and analyze public health programming using anthropological best practices To illustrates the rationale for use of particular methods each chapter elaborates a case study from the author s own work showing why particular methods were adopted in each case Global Mountain Regions Ann Kingsolver,Sasikumar Balasundaram,2018-09-01 No matter where they are located in the world communities living in mountain regions have shared experiences defined in large part by contradictions These communities often face social and economic marginalization despite providing the lumber coal minerals tea and tobacco that have fueled the growth of nations for centuries They are perceived as remote and socially inferior backwaters on one hand while simultaneously seen as culturally rich and spiritually sacred spaces on the other These contradictions become even more fraught as environmental changes and political strains place added pressure on these mountain communities Shifting national borders and changes to watersheds forests and natural resources play an increasingly important role as nations respond to the needs of a global economy The works in this volume consider multiple nations languages generations and religions in their exploration of upland communities responses to the unique challenges and opportunities they share From paintings to digital mapping environmental studies to poetry land reclamation efforts to song lyrics the collection provides a truly interdisciplinary and global study The editors and authors offer a cross cultural exploration of the many strategies that mountain communities are employing to face the concerns of the future The Andean World Linda J. Seligmann,Kathleen

S. Fine-Dare,2018-11-08 This comprehensive reference offers an authoritative overview of Andean lifeways It provides valuable historical context and demonstrates the relevance of learning about the Andes in light of contemporary events and debates The volume covers the ecology and pre Columbian history of the region and addresses key themes such as cosmology aesthetics gender and household relations modes of economic production exchange and consumption postcolonial legacies identities political organization and movements and transnational interconnections With over 40 essays by expert contributors that highlight the breadth and depth of Andean worlds this is an essential resource for students and scholars alike

Cohen,2007 Anthropology News ,2009 Anthropology Newsletter ,1998 Mobilizing Food Vending Ginette Wessel,2024-12-17 Mobilizing Food Vending investigates the gourmet food truck movement in the United States and provides a clearer understanding of the social and economic factors that shape vendor autonomy and industry growth The book features case studies in a variety of American cities and uses top down and bottom up urban theory to frame a discussion of food trucks rights displacement and resiliency Using ethnographic and archival research collected from industry experts the book examines vendors operational strategies their regulatory challenges when navigating the city and their economic cultural and political roles in shaping urban space Mobilizing Food Vending argues that food truck vendors are critical actors that support local economies and contribute to the public realm while shaping regulatory policy from the bottom up This book will appeal to urban scholars studying the contemporary neoliberal city the public realm and communication technology and mobility as well as to urban planners seeking to understand how vendors shape city plans and policies

Incorporating Science, Economics, and Sociology in Developing Sanitary and Phytosanitary Standards in International Trade National Research Council,Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources,2000-07-01 The rapid expansion of international trade has brought to the fore issues of conflicting national regulations in the area of plant animal and human health These problems include the concern that regulations designed to protect health can also be used for protection of domestic producers against international competition At a time when progressive tariff reform has opened up markets and facilitated trade in part responding to consumer demands for access to a wide choice of products and services at reasonable prices closer scrutiny of regulatory measures has become increasingly important At the same time there are clear differences among countries and cultures as to the types of risk citizens are willing to accept The activities of this conference were based on the premise that risk analyses i e risk assessment management and communication are not exclusively the domain of the biological and natural sciences the social sciences play a prominent role in describing how people in different contexts perceive and respond to risks Any effort to manage sanitary and phytosanitary SPS issues in international trade must integrate all the sciences to develop practices for risk assessment management and communication that recognize international diversity in culture experience and institutions Uniform international standards can help but no such norms are likely to be acceptable to all countries Political and administrative structures also differ causing differences in approaches and outcomes even when basic aims are compatible Clearly there is considerable room for confusion and mistrust The issue is how to balance the individual regulatory needs and approaches of countries with the goal of promoting freer trade This issue arises not only for SPS standards but also in regard to regulations that affect other areas such as environmental quality working conditions and the exercise of intellectual property rights This conference focused on these issues in the specific area of SPS measures This area includes provisions to protect plant and animal health and life and more generally the environment and regulations that protect humans from foodborne risks The Society for Risk Analysis defines a risk as the potential for realization of unwanted adverse consequences to human life health property or the environment estimation of risk is usually based on the expected value of the conditional probability of the event occurring times the consequence of the event given that it has occurred The task of this conference and of this report was to elucidate the place of science culture politics and economics in the design and implementation of SPS measures and in their international management The goal was to explore the critical roles and the limitations of the biological and natural sciences and the social sciences such as economics sociology anthropology philosophy and political science in the management of SPS issues and in judging whether particular SPS measures create unacceptable barriers to international trade The conference s objective also was to consider the elements that would compose a multidisciplinary analytical framework for SPS decision making and needs for future research
