Literary geographies is an exciting new area of interdisciplinary research Innovative and engaging this book applies theories of landscape space and place from the discipline of cultural geography within an early modern historical context Different kinds of drama and performance are analysed from commercial drama by key playwrights to household masques and entertainment performed by families and in semi official contexts Sanders provides a fresh look at works from the careers of Ben Jonson John Milton and Richard Brome paying attention to geographical spaces and habitats like forests coastlines and arctic landscapes of ice and snow as well as the more familiar locales of early modern country estates and city streets and spaces Overall the book encourages readers to think about geography as kinetic embodied and physical not least in its literary configurations presenting a key contribution to early modern scholarship Painter of Silence Georgina

It provides fresh interpretations of fundamental works and of the vital and challenging issues emerging in English literary studies. By engaging with the materiality of the literary text its production and reception history and frequently testing and exploring the boundaries of the notion of text itself the volumes in the series question familiar frameworks and provide innovative interpretations of both canonical and less well known works The Aesthetics of Island Space discusses islands as central figures in the modern experience of space It examines the spatial poetics of islands in literary texts from Shakespeare s The Tempest to Ghosh s The Hungry Tide in the journals of explorers and scientists such as James Cook and Charles Darwin and in Hollywood cinema It traces the ways in which literary and cinematic islands have functioned as malleable spatial figures that offer vivid perceptual experiences as well as a geopoetic oscillation between the material energies of words and images and the energies of the physical world The chapters focus on America s island gateways Roanoke and Ellis Island visions of tropical islands Tahiti and imagined South Sea islands the islands of the US Canadian border region in the Pacific Northwest and the imaginative appeal of mutable islands It argues that modern voyages of discovery posed considerable perceptual and cognitive challenges to the experience of space and that these challenges were negotiated in complex and contradictory ways via poetic engagement with islands Discussions of island narratives in postcolonial theory have broadened understanding of how islands have been imagined as geometrical abstractions bounded spaces easily subjected to the colonial gaze There is however a second story of islands in the Western imagination which runs parallel to this colonial story In this alternative account the modern experience of islands in the age of discovery went hand in hand with a disintegration of received models of understanding global space Drawing on and rethinking post phenomenological geocritical and geopoetic theories The Aesthetics of Island Space argues that the modern experience of islands as mobile and shifting territories implied a dispersal fragmentation and diversification of spatial experience and it explores how this disruption is registered and negotiated by both non fictional and fictional responses
