The Story of Eames Furniture Marilyn Neuhart, John Neuhart, 2015-07 In this unique publication Marilyn and John Neuhart tell the story to paraphrase Charles Eames himself of how Eames furniture got to be the way it is The Story of Eames Furniture is a biography not of an individual person but of arguably the most influential and important furniture brand of our time Brimming with more than 2 500 images and insider information this two volume book in a slipcase sheds new light on the context in which the furniture of Charles and Ray Eames was created It documents in unparalleled detail how the design process in the Eames Office developed as well as the significant roles played by specific designers and manufacturers Volume 1 presents the early years of the Eames Office and its method of furniture design and development It introduces not only Charles and Ray Eames but also key members of their design team including Eero Saarinen Harry Bertoina Herbert Matter and others a widely diverse group of people who did the day by day work on the furniture projects and who together ultimately turned contemporary design in a new direction This volume also focuses on Charles Eames's early work with plywood and how he adapted plywood molding techniques into a system to mass produce furniture Volume 2 features the period from the aftermath of the Second World War through 1978 the year of Charles Eames's death and of the effective functional end of the Eames Office By explaining the pioneering industrial processes used with innovative materials such as fiberglass wire and aluminum it provides incomparable insight into how new technologies served as the genesis for the most interesting pieces of Eames furniture This volume also focuses on the role of the Herman Miller Furniture Company in the evolution of furniture design at the Eames Office and investigates the influence of Don Albinson who was Charles Eames's primary designer and technician from the mid 1940s to 1960 The Story of Eames Furniture celebrates Charles Eames's vanguard cultural achievement of giving modern society the opportunity of materializing its identity through furniture design that even today still tops bestseller lists and has not lost any of its original elegance timelessness freshness and quality

[The Herman Miller age], 2010 Aluminum Upcycled Carl A. Zimring, 2017-03-15 Tracing the benefits and limitations of repurposing aluminum Besides being the right thing to do for Mother Earth recycling can also make money particularly when it comes to upcycling a zero waste practice where discarded materials are fashioned into goods of greater economic or cultural value In Upcycling Aluminum Carl A Zimring explores how the metal's abundance after World War II coupled with the significant economic and environmental costs of smelting it from bauxite ore led to the industrial production of valuable durable goods from salvaged aluminum Beginning in 1886 with the discovery of how to mass produce aluminum the book examines the essential part the metal played in early aviation and the world wars as well as the troubling expansion of aluminum as a material of mass disposal Recognizing that scrap aluminum was as good as virgin material and much more affordable than newly engineered metal designers in the postwar era used aluminum to manufacture highly prized artifacts Zimring takes us on a tour of post 1940s design examining the use of aluminum in cars trucks airplanes furniture and musical instruments from 1945 to 2015 By viewing upcycling through the lens of one material Zimring deepens our understanding of the history of recycling in industrial society He also provides a historical perspective on contemporary sustainable design practices Along the way he challenges common assumptions about upcycling s merits and adds a new dimension to recycling as a form of environmental absolution for the waste related sins of the modern world Raising fascinating questions of consumption environment and desire Upcycling Aluminum is for anyone interested in industrial and environmental history discard studies engineering product design music history or antiques
