The Song Of The Dodo David Quammen, 2012-03-31 Why have island ecosystems always suffered such high rates of extinction In our age with all the world's landscapes from Tasmania to the Amazon to Yellowstone now being carved into island like fragments by human activity the implications of this question are more urgent than ever Over the past eight years David Quammen has followed the threads of island biogeography on a globe encircling journey of discovery The Publishers Weekly, 1920

Lost Land of the Dodo Anthony S. Cheke, Julian Pender Hume, 2008-01-01 Uninhabited by humans the Mascarene Islands of the Indian Ocean were once home to an extraordinary range of birds and reptiles giant tortoises parrots skinks geckos burrowing boas flightless rails and herons and most famously dodos But the discovery of the three isolated islands in the 1500s and their colonization in the 1600s led to dramatic ecological changes The dodo became extinct on its home island of Mauritius within several decades and over the next 150 years most native vertebrates suffered the same fate This fascinating book provides the first full ecological history of the Mascarene Islands as well as the specific story of each extinct vertebrate accompanied by Julian Hume's superb color illustrations Wild Dog Dreaming Deborah Bird Rose, 2011-04-01 We are living in the midst of the Earth's sixth great extinction event the first one caused by a single species our own In Wild Dog Dreaming Deborah Bird Rose explores what constitutes an ethical relationship with nonhuman others in this era of loss She asks Who are we as a species How do we fit into the Earth's systems Amidst so much change how do we find our way into new stories to guide us Rose explores these questions in the form of a dialogue between science and the humanities Drawing on her conversations with Aboriginal people for whom questions of extinction are up close and very personal Rose develops a mode of exposition that is dialogical philosophical and open ended An inspiration for Rose and a touchstone throughout her book is the endangered dingo of Australia The dingo is not the first animal to face extinction but its story is particularly disturbing because the threat to its future is being actively engineered by humans The brazenness with which the dingo is being wiped out sheds valuable and chilling light on the likely fate of countless other animal and plant species People save what they love observed Michael Soul the great conservation biologist We must ask whether we as humans are capable of loving and therefore capable of caring for the animals and plants that are disappearing in a cascade of extinctions Wild Dog Dreaming engages this question and the result is a bold account of the entangled ethics of love contingency and desire Whitaker's Books in Print, 1998

The Literary Criticism of Frank Norris Donald Pizer, 2014-11-06 All of American author Frank Norris's significant critical writings have been compiled in this book including his articles for the San Francisco Wave during 1896 1897 and selections from his Weekly Letter column for the Chicago American in 1901 Essays from these two previously unexploited sources comprising almost half the book reveal certain areas of Norris's thought which heretofore had been overlooked by scholars This book was compiled in order to clarify Frank Norris's literary creed When Donald Pizer began to read Norris's uncollected critical articles he observed concepts which had been unnoted or misunderstood by his critics Crediting this to the inadequate representation of Norris's ideas in the posthumous The Responsibilities of the Novelist 1903 Pizer recognized the need for an interpretive and complete edition of Norris's critical writings This volume thus fills a noticeable gap in the field of American literary criticism By the time of his death in 1902 Norris had a closed system of critical ideas This core of ideas however is only peripherally related to the conventional concept of literary naturalism which perhaps explains why critics have gone astray trying to find Zolaesque ideas in Norris's criticism Norris's central idea around which he built an aesthetic of the novel was that the best novel combines an intensely primitivistic subject matter and theme with a highly sophisticated form His paradox of sophisticated primitivism clarifies the vital link between the fiction produced in the 1890s and that written by Hemingway Faulkner and Steinbeck Norris's essays deal with many of the literary themes which preoccupy modern critical theorists His range of subjects includes the form and function of the novel definitions of naturalism realism and romanticism and the problem of what constitutes an American novel His interpretation of commonplace events his comments on prominent figures of his day and his parodies of writers such as Bret Harte Stephen Crane and Rudyard Kipling are characterized by ingenuity and perception Through these writings the personality of a man with well defined convictions and the ability to expound them provocatively comes into sharp focus In a general introduction Pizer summarizes Norris's critical position and surveys his career as literary critic This introduction and the interpretative introductions preceding each section constitute an illuminating essay on the literary temper of the period and provide a new insight into Norris's craft and his literary philosophy

Chanson de Roland is the oldest remaining major work of French literature. It exists in various different manuscript versions which testify to its enormous and enduring popularity in the 12th to 14th centuries. The oldest of these versions is the one in the Oxford manuscript which contains a text of some 4 004 lines; the number varies slightly in different modern editions and is usually dated to the middle of the twelfth century between 1140 and 1170. The epic poem is the first and most outstanding example of the chanson de geste, a literary form that flourished between the eleventh and fifteenth centuries and celebrated the legendary deeds of a hero. The story told in the poem is based on a relatively minor historical incident: the Battle of Roncevaux Pass on August 15, 778, in which the rearguard of Charlemagne's retreating Franks, escorting a rich collection of booty gathered during a failed campaign in Spain, was attacked by Basques. The Song of Roland has been translated many times in many languages. This English translation from 1919 is by Captain Charles Kenneth C. K. Scott Moncrieff. Storytelling Apes Mary Sanders Pollock, 2015-05-04. The annals of field primatology are filled with stories about charismatic animals native to some of the most challenging and remote areas on earth. There are, for example, the chimpanzees of Tanzania whose social and family interactions Jane Goodall has studied for decades; the mountain gorillas of the Virungas chronicled first by George Schaller and then later more obsessively by Dian Fossey; various species of monkeys: Indian langurs, Kenyan baboons, and Brazilian spider monkeys studied by Sarah Hrdy, Shirley Strum, Robert Sapolsky, Barbara Smuts, and Karen Strier; and finally the orangutans of the Bornean woodlands whom Birut Galdikas has observed passionately. Humans are, after all, storytelling apes. The narrative urge is encoded in our DNA along with large brains, nimble fingers, and color vision traits we share with lemurs, monkeys, and apes. In Storytelling Apes, Mary Sanders Pollock traces the development and evolution of primatology field narratives while reflecting upon the development of the discipline and the changing conditions within natural primate habitat. Like almost every other field primatologist who followed her, Jane Goodall recognized the individuality of her study animals; defying formal scientific protocols, she named her chimpanzee subjects instead of numbering them, thereby establishing a trend. For Goodall, Fossey, Sapolsky, and numerous other scientists whose works are discussed in Storytelling Apes, free-living primates became fully realized characters in romances, tragedies, comedies, and never-ending soap operas. With this work, Pollock shows readers with a humanist perspective that science writing can have remarkable literary value, encourages scientists to share their passions with the general public, and inspires the conservation community. The Spectator, 1849 Musical News, 1916 Billboard, 1947-01-04. Cross-Cultural Reckonings Blanche H. Gelfant,1995-01-27 Blanche H Gelfant s book Cross Cultural Reckonings both demonstrates and questions the applicability of postmodern cultural and literary theories to realistic texts to fiction and autobiographies valued for their truth Drawing together an unusual combination of Russian American and Canadian writers the various essays of this book provide new and original perspectives upon the puzzling issues of national identity of historical change and continuity of gender and the integrity of literary genres the boundaries between text and context and the underlying if overlooked conflicts between the postmodern critic s skepticism and a writer s belief in the transcendence of art and truth To avoid the contingencies inherent in binary comparisons the essays in this book seek a triadic form analogous to the triptych or polyptych of the visual arts Multi faceted non linear and open ended such a form might allow the academic essay to recover a waywardness that traces back to Montaigne cited in prefatory notes and to the etymological meaning of the essay as an exagium or weighing as an act of reckoning A study at once elegant erudite and personal Cross Cultural Reckonings reckons with writers of different backgrounds and reputation in whom Gelfant discovers surprising affinities among them the Russian writers Lydia Chukovskaya Natalya Baranskaya and Alexander Solzhenitsyn Ethel Wilson a highly reputed Canadian writer the famous cross cultural figure Emma Goldman and established as well as new or rediscovered American writers such as Willa Cather Saul Bellow Arlene Heyman and Meridel Le Sueur These writers are discussed singly and in comparative essays each of which is discrete and self contained while all interconnect and reflect upon each other as exemplary demonstrations of cross cultural literary criticism and the deferred final judgment that results from a weighing and reweighing of books Catalog of Copyright Entries Library of Congress.
