Beyond the Iron House Saiyin Sun, 2016-07-15 Beyond the Iron House is a critical study of a crucial period of life and work of the modern Chinese writer Lu Xun Through thorough research into historical materials and archives the author demonstrates that Lu Xun was recognized in the literary field much later than has hitherto been argued Neither the appearance of Kuangren riji Diary of a madman in 1918 nor the publication of Nahan Outcry in 1923 had catapulted the author into nationwide prominence in comparison with his contemporaries neither was his literary work as original and unique as many have claimed nor were his thoughts and ideas as popular and influential as many have believed like many other agents in the literary field Lu Xun was actively involved in power struggles over what was at stake in the field Lu Xun was later built into an iconic figure and the blind worship of him hindered a better and more authentic understanding of many other modern writers and intellectuals such as Gao Changhong and Zhou Zuoren whose complex relationships with Lu Xun are fully explored and analysed in the book Architecture and the Landscape of Modernity in China before 1949 Edward Denison, 2017-02-17 This book explores China's encounter with architecture and modernity in the tumultuous epoch before Communism an encounter that was mediated not by a singular notion of modernism emanating from the west but that was uniquely multifarious deriving from a variety of sources both from the west and importantly from the east The heterogeneous origins of modernity in China are what make its experience distinctive and its architectural encounters exceptional These experiences are investigated through a re-evaluation of established knowledge of the subject within the wider landscape of modern art practices in China The study draws on original archival and photographic material from different artistic genres and architecturally concentrates on China's engagement with the west through the treaty ports and leased territories the emergence of architecture as a profession in China and Japan's omnipresence not least in Manchuria which reached its apogee in the puppet state of Manchukuo The study's geographically temporally and architecturally inclusive approach framed by the concept of multiple modernities questions the application of conventional theories of modernity or post colonialism to the Chinese situation By challenging conventional modernist historiography that has marginalised the experiences of the west's other for much of the last century this book proposes different ways of grappling with and comprehending the distinction and complexity of China's experiences and its encounter with architectural modernity Chinese Literature and the Child K. Foster, 2013-10-22 Tracking ideas of the child in Chinese society across the twentieth century Kate Foster places fictional children within the story of the nation in a study of tropes and themes which range from images of strength and purity to the murderous and amoral Modern Selfhood in Translation Limin Chi, 2018-09-03 This book examines the development of Chinese translation practice in relation to the rise of ideas of modern selfhood in China from the 1890s to the 1920s The key translations produced by late Qing and early Republican Chinese intellectuals over the three decades in question reflect a preoccupation with new personality ideals informed by foreign models and the healthy development of modern individuality in the face of crises compounded by feelings of cultural inadequacy The book clarifies how these translated works supplied the meanings for new terms and concepts that signify modern human experience and sheds light on the ways in which they taught readers to internalize the idea of the modern as personal experience Through their selection of source texts and their adoption of different translation strategies the translators chosen as case studies championed a progressive view of the world one that was open minded and humanistic

The late Qing construction of modern Chinese identity instigated under the imperative of national salvation in the aftermath of the First Sino Japanese War wielded a far reaching influence on the New Culture discourse This book argues that the New Culture translations being largely explorations of modern self consciousness helped to produce an egalitarian cosmopolitan view of modern being This was a view favoured by the majority of mainland intellectuals in the post Maoist 1980s and which has since become an important topic in mainland scholarship

Protestant Bible Translation and Mandarin as the National Language of China George Kam Wah Mak,2017-03-06 This book represents the first monograph length study of the relationship between Protestant Bible translation and the development of Mandarin from a lingua franca into the national language of China Drawing on both published and unpublished sources this book looks into the translation publication circulation and use of the Mandarin Bible in late Qing and Republican China and sets out how the Mandarin Bible contributed to the standardization and enrichment of Mandarin. It also illustrates that the Mandarin Union Version published in 1919 was involved in promoting Mandarin as not only the standard medium of communication but also a marker of national identity among the Chinese people thus playing a role in the nation building of modern China. Cosmopolitanism, Nationalism, and Individualism in Modern China Xiaoqun Xu, 2014-05-23. Cosmopolitanism, Nationalism, and Individualism in Modern China analyzes important aspects of Chinese intellectual life and cultural practices that formed and informed the historical phenomenon known as the New Culture era. Through examining an influential newspaper supplement published in Beijing during 1918-1928 along with other contemporary sources, the book explores the full dimensions and rich textures of the intellectual literary discourses of the time period and contributes to a re-consideration and re-appreciation of the New Culture phenomenon in modern China. It highlights a key intellectual moral paradox in Chinese discourses between cosmopolitanism as an idealistic aspiration and nationalism as a practical imperative both in complex relationship to individualism, a paradox that ultimately speaks to the constant negotiations between Chinese tradition and Western culture in the making of Chinese modernity. These issues have remained vitally relevant to China and the world nearly a century later. Mapping Modern Beijing Weijie Song, 2018. Mapping Modern Beijing investigates the five methods of representing Beijing: a warped hometown, a city of snapshots and manners, an aesthetic city, an imperial capital in comparative and cross-cultural perspective, and a displaced city on the Sinophone and diasporic postmemory by authors travelling across mainland China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and overseas Sinophone and non-Chinese communities. The metamorphosis of Beijing's everyday spaces and the structural transformation of private and public emotions unfold. Manchu writer Lao She's Beijing complex about a warped native city, Zhang Henshui's popular snapshots of fleeting shocks and everlasting sorrows illustrate his affective mapping of urban transition and human manners in Republican Beijing. Female poet and architect Lin Huiyin captures an aesthetic and picturesque city vis-à-vis the political and ideological urban planning. The imagined imperial capital constructed in bilingual transcultural and comparative works by Lin Yutang, Princess Der Ling, and Victor Segalen highlights the pleasures and pitfalls of collecting local knowledge and presenting Orientalist and Cosmopolitan visions. In the shadow of World Wars and Cold War, a multilayered displaced Beijing appears in the Sinophone postmemory by diasporic Beijing native Liang Shiqiu, Taiwan sojourners Zhong Lihe and Lin Haiyin, and migrational martial arts novelist Jin Yong. In Hong Kong, Weijie Song situates Beijing in a larger context of modern Chinese language, urban imaginations, and charts the emotional topography of the city against the backdrop of the downfall of the Manchu Empire, the rise of modern nation-state, the 1949 great divide, and the formation of Cold War and globalizing world. Drawing from literary canons to exotic narratives, from modernist poetry to chivalric fantasy, from popular culture to urban planning, Song explores the complex nexus of urban spaces, archives of emotions, and literary topography of Beijing in its long journey from imperial capital to Republican city and to socialist metropolis. The Avant-Garde and the Popular
