explores whether the experience of a meeting point of the immanent and the transcendent i.e. the moral self and God can be the source of our values. The book starts by arguing for a greater theological engagement with value ethics personalism and the phenomenological method by drawing on thinkers such as Max Scheler and William James. It then provides an understanding of the social and religious dimension of the valuing person demonstrating the importance of the emotional as well as the cognitive dimension of value experience. Finally this value perspective is utilised to engage with current moral issues such as professional ethics environmental ethics economical ethics and family ethics. Integrating the concepts of religious experience moral motivation and subjective and objective value within a broad framework of Christian theology and philosophy this is vital reading for any scholar of Theology and Philosophy with an interest in ethics and moral reasoning.
