Not So Fast Doug Hill, 2016

There s a well known story about an older fish who swims by two younger fish and asks How s the water The younger fish are puzzled What s water they ask Many of us today might ask a similar question What s technology Technology defines the world we live in yet we re so immersed in it so encompassed by it that we mostly take it for granted Seldom if ever do we stop to ask what technology is Failing to ask that question we fail to perceive all the ways it might be shaping us Usually when we hear the word technology we automatically think of digital devices and their myriad applications As revolutionary as smartphones online shopping and social networks may seem however they t into long standing deeply entrenched patterns of technological thought as well as practice Generations of skeptics have questioned how well served we are by those patterns of thought and practice even as generations of enthusiasts have promised that the latest innovations will deliver us soon to Paradise We re not there yet but the cyber utopians of Silicon Valley keep telling us it s right around the corner What is technology and how is it shaping us In search of answers to those crucial questions Not So Fast draws on the insights of dozens of scholars and artists who have thought deeply about the meanings of machines The book explores such dynamics as technological drift technological momentum technological disequilibrium and technological autonomy to help us understand the interconnected inter woven and interdependent phenomena of our technological world In the course of that exploration Doug Hill poses penetrating questions of his own among them Do we have as much control over our machines as we think And who can we rely on to guide the technological forces that will determine the future of the planet

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1999 Charles A. Lindbergh and the American Dilemma Susan M. Gray,1988

Throughout his life Lindbergh s value structure interests and activities shifted and moved yielding a conflict between instinct and intellect Both its presence in his life and his readjustment of values in accordance with it are representative of his time and culture He moved with the twentieth century itself from a faith in technology to a disenchantment with it and finally to a balanced resolution that synthesized the seeming oppositions of technology and the human spirit This emphasis on a balance between technology and humanity and Lindbergh s belief that maintained the complementarity rather than the opposition of the two forces finally culminated in a post technological mysticism a teleological worldview of science and nature as aspects of the same physical and spiritual environment
