Beyond Cutting Edge? Paul C. Heidebrecht, 2014-03-10 A quick scan of any newsstand is enough to confirm the widespread preoccupation with technological change As a myriad of articles and advertisements demonstrate not only are we preoccupied with technology but we are bombarded with numerous reminders that the cutting edge is in constant motion Most often the underlying assumption of Christians is that we have no choice but to find ways to cope with the latest and greatest Indeed it is often assumed that the church has no choice but to find ways to cope with its new technological context This book does not make the same assumptions Building on the work of Mennonite theologian John Howard Yoder it argues that the practices of the church make it possible for Christians to conscientiously engage technology This happens when we recognize that marks of the church such as patience vulnerability and servanthood can put technological ideals such as speed control and efficiency in their proper place In the course of grappling with three examples of morally formative technologies automobiles genetically modified food and the Internet this book goes beyond

Yoder's thought by emphasizing that the church also plays a crucial role in our moral formation

Peet, 2021-07-30 Jesus died not peacefully in bed but on the cross the instrument of execution used by the Romans to keep potential disturbers of the established political order in their place Until the pioneering work of Jurgen Moltmann the cross has been the elephant in the room in Christian political theology This book explores the difference Jesus's crucifixion makes or should make to Christian political theology by examining the crucifixion in the theologies of the Mennonite John Howard Yoder and the liberation theologians Leonardo Boff and Jon Sobrino In the light of the cross and of the kenotic God revealed by the cross questions of political power are explored and a kenotic political ethic outlined In conclusion suggestions are made as to how the contemporary church can live out a cruciform or cross shaped political spirituality and ecclesiology Radical Friendship Ryan Andrew Newson, 2017-04-01 In a society that is increasingly marked by apathy division and moral incompetence how might Christians set about working with others in such a way as to begin to address those challenges that seem to overwhelm our capacity to respond In Radical Friendship Ryan Newson argues that the often neglected practice of communal discernment provides a path to faithful political engagement that is worthy of reconsideration especially given its ability to create authentic friendships both within and beyond the church Such friendships Newson maintains are capable of fostering a type of competence in people who engage the practice that can counteract those social political forces that are antithetical to competence's formation Uniquely Newson explores the contours of communal discernment as a practice that is especially relevant to Christians seeking radical democratic alternatives to political liberalism Communal discernment is shown to be capable of generating conscientious participation in grassroots politics additionally this practice enables Christians to enjoy reciprocal discerning relationships with people of differing convictional communities Indeed communal discernment turns out to be capable of preparing Christians to recognize and celebrate analogues to the practice in the world at large
