The quiet contemporary American novel Rachel Sykes, 2017-12-01 This book explores the concept of quiet an aesthetic of narrative driven by reflective principles and argues for the term's application to the study of contemporary American fiction In doing so it makes two critical interventions Firstly it maps the neglected history of quiet fictions arguing that from Hester Prynne to Clarissa Dalloway from Bartleby to William Stoner the Western tradition is filled with quiet characters Secondly it asks what it means for a novel to be quiet and how we might read for quiet in an American literary tradition that critics so often describe as noisy Examining recent works by Marilynne Robinson Teju Cole and Ben Lerner among others the book argues that quiet can be a multi faceted state of existence one that is communicative and expressive in as many ways as noise but filled with potential for radical discourse by its marginalisation as a mode of expression

The Nearest Thing to Life James Wood, 2015-04-28 In this remarkable blend of memoir and criticism James Wood noted contributor to the New Yorker has written a master class on the connections between fiction and life He argues that of all the arts fiction has a unique ability to describe the shape of our lives and to rescue the texture of those lives from death and historical oblivion The act of reading is understood here as the most sacred and personal of activities and there are brilliant discussions of individual works among others Chekhov s story The Kiss W G Sebald s The Emigrants and Penelope Fitzgerald s The Blue Flower Wood reveals his own intimate relationship with the written word we see the development of a provincial boy growing up in a charged Christian environment the secret joy of his childhood reading the links he makes between reading and blasphemy or between literature and music The final section discusses fiction in the context of exile and homelessness The Nearest Thing to Life is not simply a brief tightly argued book by a man commonly regarded as our finest living critic it is also an exhilarating personal account that reflects on and embodies the fruitful conspiracy between reader and writer and critic and asks us to reconsider everything that is at stake when we read and write fiction

The Novel as Network Tim Lanzendörfer, Corinna Norrick-Rühl, 2020-09-23. The Novel as Network: Forms, Ideas, Commodities engages with the contemporary Anglophone novel and its derivatives and by products such as graphic novels, comics, podcasts, and Quality TV. This collection investigates the meaning of the novel in the larger system of contemporary media production and post-print culture, viewing the novel through the lens of actor-network theory as a node in the novel network. Chapters underscore the deep interconnection between all the aspects of the novel: between the novel as a literary form, as an idea, and as a commodity. Bringing together experts from American, British, and Postcolonial Studies, as well as Book Publishing and Media Studies, this collection offers a new vantage point to view the novel in its multifaceted expressions today.

SHOCK —(Novel) Mansa-Mohini, 2023-03-07. Love is an energy. Energy is dynamic. If it moves, you will soon find that it is no longer love; it has become meditation. It has become prayer. Herein lies the whole path of tantra: that if love is properly developed, if the attitude of love is carefully looked after, it becomes a prayer. It ultimately becomes the highest experience of righteousness. When a person feels the energy of that love only for the first time, so it becomes a strange mystery to that person. Because there, the intellect does not do its work because the intellect cannot understand that mystery at all. For that, we must open those doors of the heart, opening of which every living being is afraid. Because the more freedom that door gives you, the same amount of secrets completely engulfs you in themselves. You are like that hunter where you are hunting your own prey and away then you feel cheated. Because our mind cannot open or solve this fiber web. He will try to understand it as intellectually as possible. The more he will get entangled in it.
