Transforming Mozambique M. Anne Pitcher, 2002-11-14 Many of the economic transformations in Africa have been as dramatic as those in Eastern Europe Yet much of the comparative literature on transitions has overlooked African countries This 2002 study of Mozambique's shift from a command to a market economy draws on a wealth of empirical material including archival sources interviews political posters and corporate advertisements to reveal that the state is a central actor in the reform process despite the claims of neo liberals and their critics Alongside the state social forces from World Bank officials to rural smallholders have also accelerated thwarted or shaped change in Mozambique M Anne Pitcher offers an intriguing analysis of the dynamic interaction between previous and emerging agents ideas and institutions to explain the erosion of socialism and the politics of privatization in a developing country She demonstrates that Mozambique's political economy is a heterogeneous blend of ideological and institutional continuities and ruptures Transforming Mozambique M. Anne Pitcher, 2002-11-14 Many of the economic transformations in Africa have been as dramatic as those in Eastern Europe though little is written about them This study of Mozambique's shift from a command to a market economy draws on a wealth of empirical material including archival sources interviews political posters and corporate advertisements to reveal that the state is a central actor in the reform process despite the claims of neo liberals and their critics Alongside the state social forces from World Bank officials to rural smallholders have also accelerated thwarted or shaped change in Mozambique M Anne Pitcher offers an intriguing analysis of the dynamic interaction between previous and emerging agents ideas and institutions to explain the erosion of socialism and the politics of privatization in a developing country She demonstrates that Mozambique's present political economy is a heterogeneous blend of ideological and institutional continuities and ruptures

Indo-Mozambicans in Maputo, 1947-1992 Nafeesah Allen, 2022-11-01 This book explores the experiences of Indo Mozambicans citizens and residents of Mozambique who can trace their origins to the Indian subcontinent a region affected by competing colonialisms during the twentieth century Drawing from ethnographic interviews the author illustrates why migration developed as both an identity marker and a survival tool for Indo Mozambicans living in Maputo in response to the series of independence movements and prolonged period of geo political uncertainty that extended from 1947 to 1992 A unique examination of post colonialism the book argues that four pivotal moments in history forced migratory patterns and ethnic identity formations to emerge among Indo Mozambicans namely the end of the British empire in India and the subsequent partition of India and Pakistan in 1947 the end of the Portuguese empire in India with the annexation of Goa Daman and Diu in 1961 the independence of Mozambique from Portugal in 1975 and the civil war of Mozambique from 1977 to 1992 Framing these historical markers as trigger points for shifts in migration and identity formation this book demonstrates the layered experiences of people subject to Portuguese colonialism and highlights the important perspective of those left behind in migration studies The Politics of Precarity Gediminas Lesutis, 2021-12-30 Based on critical theory and ethnographic research this book explores how intensifying geographies of extractive capitalism shape human lives and transformative politics in marginal areas of the global economy Engaging the work of Judith Butler Henri Lefebvre and Jacques Rancière with ethnographic research on social and political effects of mining induced dispossession in Mozambique in the book Lesutis theorises how precarity unfolds as a spatially constituted condition of everyday life given over to the violence of capital Going beyond labour relations or governance of life in liberal democracies that are typically explored in the literature on precarity the book shows how dispossessed people are subjected to structural symbolic and direct modalities of violence this simultaneously constitutes their suffering and ceaseless desire however implausible to be included into abstract space of extractivism As a result despite the multifarious violence that it engenders extractive capital accumulation is sustained even in the margins historically excluded from contingently lived imaginaries of a good life promised by capitalism Presenting this theorisation of precarity as a framework on and a critique of the contemporary politics of unliveability the book speaks to key debates about precarity dispossession resistance extractivism and development in several disciplines especially political geography IPE global politics and critical theory It will also be of interest to scholars in development studies critical political economy and African politics

Transforming Mozambique African Edition Anne Pitcher, 2002-11-19 Publisher Description The Politics of African Industrial Policy Lindsay Whitfield, Ole Therkildsen, Lars Buur, Anne Mette Kjær, 2015-07-02 This book engages in the debate on growth versus economic transformation and the importance of industrial policy presenting a comprehensive framework for explaining the politics of industrial policy Using comparative research to theorize about the politics of industrial policy in countries in the early stages of capitalist transformation that also experience the pressures of elections due to democratization this book provides four in depth African country studies that illustrate the challenges to economic transformation and the politics of implementing industrial policies

Neoliberal Bandwagonism. Civil society and the politics of belonging in Anglophone Cameroon Piet Konings, 2009 While neoliberals typically view civil society organizations as vital channels for the implementation of economic and political reforms they are also inclined to blame the politics of belonging for the poor record of these reforms Piet Konings rejects such notions and argues that the relationship between civil society and the politics of belonging is more complex in Africa than Western donors and scholars are inclined to admit He argues that ethno regional associations and movements are more significant constituents of civil society in Africa than the conventional organizations that are often uncritically imposed or endorsed He shows how the politics of belonging so pervasive in Cameroon and indeed much of Africa during the current neoliberal economic and political reforms has tended to penetrate the entire range of associational life and he calls for a critical re appraisal of prevalent notions and assumptions about civil society in the interest of African reality
