Tobacco Harvest An Elegy:

Tobacco Harvest Wendell Berry, 2022-07-12 With his striking photographs James Baker Hall powerfully conveys the physical experience of a Kentucky tobacco harvest. He captures the process from the tractor ride out to the field where rows of tobacco stretch toward the horizon to the careful precise cutting of each individual plant and finally to hauling the crop away and housing it in the barn. Hall's snapshots of the gathering of many hands who come to help and the time honored practices of the harvest capture the end of an era. Hall's stunning work is accompanied by an essay from Wendell Berry which provides an insightful meditation on the shifting nature of humans relationships with the land and with each other. Berry laments the economic political and societal changes that have forever altered Kentucky's rich agricultural traditions. He adds a deeply personal perspective to Hall's eloquent visual testimony sharing memories of stories told laughs shared meals savored and brief moments of rest and refreshment well earned. Tobacco Harvest An Elegy is a candid portrait of a bygone way of life a time before cheaper tobacco imported from abroad and a public awareness of the health risks associated with tobacco use nearly destroyed the industry in the United States. Berry's words and Hall's photographs offer an understanding of the high standards and perfectionism required to produce a good harvest as well as a glimpse of the hot sun the dirt and the people hard at work.

Burley Ann K. Ferrell, 2013-07-01 Once iconic American symbols tobacco farms are gradually disappearing. It is difficult for many people to lament the loss of a crop that has come to symbolize addiction disease and corporate deception yet in Kentucky the plant has played an important role in economic development and prosperity. Burley tobacco a light air cured variety used in cigarette production has long been the Commonwealth's largest cash crop and an important aspect of regional identity along with bourbon bluegrass music and

Thoroughbred horses In Burley Kentucky Tobacco in a New Century Ann K Ferrell investigates the rapidly transforming process of raising and selling tobacco by chronicling her conversations with the farmers who know the crop best She demonstrates that although the 2004 buyout ending the federal tobacco program is commonly perceived to be the most significant change that growers have had to negotiate it is in reality only one new factor among many Burley reveals the tangible and intangible challenges tobacco farmers face today from the logistics of cultivation to the growing stigma against the crop Ferrell uses ethnography archival research and rhetorical analysis to tell the complex story of burley tobacco production in twenty first century Kentucky Not only does she give a voice to the farmers who persevere in this embattled industry but she also sheds light on their futures contesting the widely held assumption that they can easily replace the crop by diversifying their operations with alternative crops As tobacco fades from both the physical and economic landscapes this nuanced volume documents and explores the culture and practices of burley production today Humanities ,2012
