To The White Sea Delta World War II Library:

Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals, 1992 Encyclopedia of the Environment in American Literature Geoff Hamilton, Brian Jones, 2014-01-10 This encyclopedia introduces readers to American poetry fiction and nonfiction with a focus on the environment broadly defined as humanity's natural surroundings from the discovery of America through the present. The work includes biographical and literary entries on material from early explorers and colonists such as Columbus, Bartolome de Las Casas and Thomas Harriot. Native American creation myths, canonical 18th and 19th century works of Jefferson, Emerson, Thoreau, Whitman, Hawthorne, Twain, Dickinson and others to more recent figures such as Jack London, Ernest Hemingway, Norman Mailer, Stanley Cavell, Rachel Carson, Jon Krakauer and Al Gore. It is meant to provide a synoptic appreciation of how the very concept of the environment has changed over the past five centuries, offering both a general introduction to the topic and a valuable resource for high school and university courses focused on environmental issues.

Deep Souths J. William Harris, 2003-03-17 Finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in History. Co-winner of the James A. Rawley Prize from the Organization of American Historians. Winner of the Theodore Saloutos Memorial Book Prize from the Agricultural History Society. Deep Souths tells the stories of three southern regions from Reconstruction to World War II: the Mississippi Yazoo Delta, the eastern Piedmont of Georgia, and the Georgia Sea Islands and Atlantic coast. Though these regions initially shared the histories and populations we associate with the idea of a Deep South, all had economies based on slave plantation labor. In 1860 their histories diverged sharply during the three generations after Reconstruction. With research gathered from oral histories, census reports and a wide variety of other sources, Harris traces these regional changes in cumulative stories of individuals across the social spectrum. Deep Souths presents a comparative and ground-level view of history that challenges the idea that the lower South was either uniform or static in the era of segregation. By the end of the New Deal era, changes in these regions had prepared the way for the civil rights movement and the end of segregation.

In the mid-1950s, Septima Poinsette Clark, 1898-1987, a former public school teacher, developed a citizenship training program that enabled thousands of African Americans to register to vote and then to link the power of the ballot to concrete strategies for individual and communal empowerment. In this vibrantly written biography, Katherine Charron demonstrates Clark's crucial role and the role of many black women teachers in making education a cornerstone of the twentieth-century freedom struggle. Using Clark's life as a lens, Charron sheds valuable new light on southern black women's activism in national state and judicial politics from the Progressive Era.
