Guide to Reprints, 2007 The Making of an Artist Kathleen Bulgin, 1988 Voicing the Ineffable Siglind Bruhn, 2002 The relationship between music and religion has long been a clearly delineated one Up to the late Middle Ages music employed for ritual expressions of faith in sacred contexts was contrasted with secular music then mostly played in open spaces The former was believed to aid in the communication of divine truths while the latter was suspected of arousing sensuality and thus potentially leading away from the spiritual perspective of life In subsequent centuries music entered first the courtly salons then the concert hall and the home Such music created for virtuoso performance or for the enjoyment in private chambers occasionally made room for an expression of religious experiences outside the dedicated spaces of worship This aspect is particularly intriguing in instrumental music where allusions to extra musical messages are at best hinted at in titles or explanatory notes and in those cases of vocal music where it can be shown that the musical language adds significant nuances to the verbal text On the basis of various case studies that transcend a music analytical approach in the direction of the hermeneutic perspective this volume explores in which ways the musical language in itself independently of an explicitly sacred context communicates the ineffable The discussion focuses on the musical means and devices employed to this effect and on the question what the presence of religious messages in certain works of secular music tells us about the spirituality of an era

Manet/Velázquez Gary Tinterow, Geneviève Lacambre, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), Musée d'Orsay, 2003 Here approximately two hundred works by French and Spanish artists chart the development of this cultural influence and map a fascinating shift in the paradigm of painting from Idealism to Realism from Italy to Spain from Renaissance to Baroque Above all these images demonstrate how direct contact with Spanish painting fired the imagination of nineteenth century French artists and brought about the triumph of Realism in the 1860s and with it a foundation for modern art BOOK JACKET
