From the Sea (Picador Shorts) Dan Saladino,2025-06-10 A captivating tour through some of our most cherished marine food traditions and the danger of extinction that they increasingly face in today s world In this standalone extract from Eating to Extinction the distinguished BBC food journalist Dan Saladino travels the world to experience and document our most at risk foods from the sea before it s too late From exploring the curious case of the wild Scottish salmon and its tumultuous history to observing the elaborate and highly ritualized process of making Japanese shio katsu that prized form of dried skipjack tuna to learning about the artisanal production of dried mullet roe by the Imraguen in Mauritania the ocean foodways Saladino profiles here are essential guides to treasured foods the rest of us have forgotten or didn t know existed Throughout these original and grippingly written chapters Saladino shows us that when foods become endangered we risk the loss of not only traditional foodways but also flavors smells and textures that may never be experienced again And he also shows how endangering stocks of at risk fish comes with the added loss of the human cultures that are tied together with them and the greater dangers that overfishing poses to marine ecosystems at large From the Sea is part of the Picador Shorts series Oceans Rivers and Streams in which excerpts from beloved classics speak to our relationship with our water bodies great and small

Englishness and Post-imperial Space Milton Sarkar,2016-02-08 Englishness and Post imperial Space The Poetry of Philip Larkin and Ted Hughes probes into the English mindset immediately after the British withdrawal from the colonies and examines how the loss of power and global prestige affected contemporary poetry particularly that of

Philip Larkin and Ted Hughes Frustration and disillusionment even anger characterised the era and many of the literary works the period produced Most writers became insular and were obsessed with the English elements in their writing The great international and cosmopolitan themes of Eliot for instance were replaced by those of narrow domestic importance It is in such a context this book argues that Larkin and Hughes returned to the old England most notably to the themes of gradually vanishing pristine landscape and national myths and legends to the archetypal English customs and conventions It examines their poetry mainly from the perspective of Englishness a burgeoning area of academic interest Intricately connected with the values emanating from England as a geographical and socio cultural space Englishness as a concept is intrinsic to the identity of a people who gradually became globally powerful The loss of empire dealt a severe blow to this sense of the self This book explores the dynamics of the representation of this sense of loss and the frustration it produced in the poems of Larkin and Hughes

Eating to Extinction Dan Saladino, 2022-02-01 A New York Times Book Review Editors Choice What Saladino finds in his adventures are people with soul deep relationships to their food This is not the decadence or the preciousness we might associate with a word like foodie but a form of reverence Enchanting Molly Young The New York Times Dan Saladino's Eating to Extinction is the prominent broadcaster's pathbreaking tour of the world's vanishing foods and his argument for why they matter now more than ever Over the past several decades globalization has homogenized what we eat and done so ruthlessly The numbers are stark Of the roughly six thousand different plants once consumed by human beings only nine remain major staples today Just three of these rice wheat and corn now provide fifty percent of all our calories Dig deeper and the trends are more worrisome still The source of much of the world's food seeds is mostly in the control of just four corporations Ninety five percent of milk consumed in the United States comes from a single breed of cow Half of all the world's cheese is made with bacteria or enzymes made by one company And one in four beers drunk around the world is the product of one brewer If it strikes you that everything is starting to taste the same wherever you are in the world you're by no means alone This matters when we lose diversity and foods become endangered we not only risk the loss of traditional foodways but also of flavors smells and textures that may never be experienced again And the consolidation of our food has other steep costs including a lack of resilience in the face of climate change pests and parasites Our food monoculture is a threat to our health and to the planet In Eating to Extinction the distinguished BBC food journalist Dan Saladino travels the world to experience and document our most at risk foods before it's too late He tells the fascinating stories of the people who continue to cultivate forage hunt cook and consume what the rest of us have forgotten or didn't even know existed Take honey not the familiar product sold in plastic bottles but the wild honey gathered by the Hadza people of East Africa whose diet consists of eight hundred different plants and animals and who communicate with birds in order to locate bees nests Or consider murnong once the staple food of Aboriginal Australians this small root vegetable with the sweet taste of coconut is undergoing a revival after nearly being driven to extinction And in Sierra Leone there are just a few surviving stenophylla trees a plant species now considered crucial to the future of coffee From an Indigenous American chef refining precolonial recipes to farmers tending Geechee red peas on the Sea Islands of Georgia the individuals profiled in Eating to Extinction are essential guides to treasured foods that have endured in the face of rampant sameness and standardization They also provide a roadmap to a food system that is healthier more robust and above all richer in flavor and meaning

Maine Metaphor: The Gulf S. Dorman,2023-06-29 Each summer weekend can be like a holiday here in Maine Once to the Vikings it was rugged Vineland today Maine is Vacationland After a hard dirty winter mild air and watery sunlit places are calling an abundance of evocative coastal places within a couple minutes or couple of hours drive The author experienced one beach not typical of Maine It was different in a lively way She and her spouse Allen drove to Auburn for groceries and suddenly decided over lunch in the Nickel Diner to go visit Old Orchard Beach before grocery shopping Old Orchard Beach has long been a resort town situated in a curve of Saco Bay and full of mechanized carnival life its waterfront crammed with screaming or jovial activity shimmering in sunlight After a search in side streets full of summer lodgings and cars the travelers locate a place to park then walk down to the sea down to Maine on the Mediterranean

The Perpetual Consequences of Fear and Violence Chris Maser,2004 Arguing that current conflicts in the war on terrorism are doing tremendous damage to future generations this timely analysis draws on the work of non violent leaders like Gandhi to provide alternatives to responding to increased levels of fear and anxiety with violence Seizing on the surprising example of Northwest salmon as a paradigm contemporary clashes like the War on Terror are dissected with an eye toward the political ecosystems they endanger Also included is a meditation on what citizens can do to change their own political ecosystems by considering the long term political and ecological effects of the even the smallest decisions

Seafood Leader ,1992 The Atlantic Salmon Journal ,1992 Ted Williams Leigh Montville,2004-04-13 The Kid The Splendid Splinter Teddy Ballgame One of the greatest figures of his generation and arguably the greatest baseball hitter of all time But what made Ted Williams a legend and a lightning rod for controversy in life and in death Still a gangly teenager when he stepped into a Boston Red Sox uniform in 1939 Williams s boisterous personality and penchant for towering home runs earned him adoring admirers and venomous critics In 1941 the entire country followed Williams's stunning 406 season a record that has not been touched in over six decades. Then at the pinnacle of his prime, Williams left Boston to train and serve as a fighter pilot in World War II, missing three full years of baseball, making his achievements all the more remarkable. Ted Williams's personal life was equally colorful. His attraction to women and their attraction to him was a constant. He was married and divorced three times and he fathered two daughters and a son. He was one of corporate America's first modern spokesmen and he remained nearly into his eighties a fiercely devoted fisherman. With his son John Henry Williams, he devoted his final years to the sports memorabilia business, even as illness overtook him. And in death, controversy and public outcry followed Williams and the disagreements between his children over the decision to have his body preserved for future resuscitation in a cryonics facility, a fate many argue Williams never wanted. With unmatched verve and passion and drawing upon hundreds of interviews, acclaimed best-selling author Leigh Montville brings to life Ted Williams's superb triumphs, lonely tragedies, and intensely colorful personality in a biography that is fitting of an American hero and legend.
