The Last Isle Sheng-mei Ma, 2015-07-09 Taiwan is in danger of becoming the last isle losing its sovereignty and identity. The Last Isle opens from where Taiwan film scholarship leaves off the 1980s Taiwan New Cinema focusing on relatively unknown contemporary films that are unglobalizable such as Cape No 7, Island Etude, Din Tao and Seven Days in Heaven. It explores Taiwan films inextricability with trauma theory, the irony of loving and mourning, Taiwan multilingualism, local beliefs and theatrical practices including Ang Lee's white films. The second half of the book analyzes Taiwan's popular culture in Western style food and drink, conditions over living and dying, and English education, concluding with the source of Taiwan's anxiety, China. This book distinguishes itself from Taiwan scholarship in its stylistic crazy quilt of the scholarly interwoven with the personal evidenced right from the outset in the poetic title The Last Isle coupled with the dissertating subtitle. This approach intertwines the helix of reason and affect, scholarship and emotion. The Last Isle accomplishes a look at globalization from the bottom up from a global Taiwan whose very existence is in doubt.

Classroom Practice and Teacher Cognition Nicholas Bradley, 2024-10-26 This collection occupies the middle ground between teachers showcasing their work and academics presenting research that is often situated in irreplicable, uncommon or impractical classroom settings. The work presented here is provided by full-time university language educators who maintain a robust and active research agenda that focuses on their own classroom practice. Whether one wishes to label it under action research, exploratory practice, reflective practice, or other, the findings of the research into their own practices and educational contexts are accessible and will resonate strongly with both practicing teachers and academics investigating classroom practice and teacher cognition. All articles are written with the aim of developing practice in a way that is recognisable to teachers and beneficial to their educational efforts. Indeed, recent literature calls for guidance to come from those actively engaged in classroom teaching and who apply sound research methods to the daily contexts lived by teachers and students.

The Sociocultural Activity of High Stakes Standardised Language Testing Dawn Karen Booth, 2018-02-26 This book explores the influence of high stakes standardised testing within the context of South Korea. South Korea is regarded as a shining example of success in educational achievement, and as this book reveals, pressurised standardised testing has been a major contributing factor to its success. This unique country provides an excellent setting from which to explore the powerful relationship that exists between testing and learning, and can advance our understanding of which factors and test conditions will positively and negatively influence learning. This book follows the test activity of a group of Korean university students preparing for the TOEIC Test of English for International Communication and posits a revised model of the influence of testing on learning. It calls for a more socially situated view of tests and test takers considered in relation to the sociocultural historical political and economic contexts in which they are embedded
