Reconciliation and Building a Sustainable Peace Cathy Bollaert, 2019-02-02 This book explores how competing worldviews impact on intergroup relations and building a sustainable peace in culturally diverse societies It raises the question of what happens in a culturally diverse society when competing values and ways of interpreting reality collide and what this means for peace building and the goal of reconciliation Moreover it provides a valuable and needed contribution to how peace building interventions can become more sustainable if tied into local values and embedded in a society's system of meaning making The book engages with questions relating to the extent transitional policies speak to universal values and individualist societies and the implications this might have for how they are implemented in collective societies with different values and forms of social organisation It raises the question of cultural equality and transformation and whether or not this is something that needs to be addressed within peace building theory It argues that inculcating worldview into peace building theory and practice is a vital part of restoring dignity and promoting healing among victims and formerly oppressed groups This book therefore makes an important contribution to what is at best a partially researched topic by providing a deeper understanding of how identity and culture intersect with peace building when seeking to build a sustainable peace

Language Empires in Comparative Perspective Christel Stolz, 2015-03-10 The notion of empire is associated with economic and political mechanisms of dominance For the last decades however there has been a lively debate concerning the question whether this concept can be transferred to the field of linguistics specifically to research on situations of language spread on the one hand and concomitant marginalization of minority languages on the other The authors who contributed to this volume concur as to the applicability of the notion of empire to language related issues They address the processes potential merits and drawbacks of language spread as well as the marginalization of minority languages language endangerment and revitalization contact induced language change the emergence of mixed languages and identity issues An emphasis is on the dominance of non Western languages such as Arabic Chinese and particularly Russian The studies demonstrate that the emergence spread and decline of language empires is a promising area of research particularly from a comparative perspective

Migration, Racism and Labor Exploitation in the World-System Denis O'Hearn, Paul Ciccantell, 2021-07-29 This book offers a historically sweeping yet detailed view of world systemic migration as a racialized process Since the early expansion of the world system the movement of people has been its central process Not only have managers of capital moved to direct profitable expansion they have also forced cajoled or encouraged workers to move in order to extract grow refine manufacture and transport materials and commodities The book offers historical cases that show that migration introduces and deepens racial dominance in all zones of the world system This often forces indigenous and imported slaves or bonded labor to extract process and move raw materials Yet it also often creates a contradiction between capital s need to direct labor to where it enables profitability and the desires of large sections of dominant populations to keep subordinate people of color marginalized and separate Case studies reveal how core states are concurrently users and blockers of migrant labor Key examples are Mexican migrants in the United States both historically and in contemporary society The United States even promotes of an image of a society that welcomes the immigrant while policy realities often quite different Nonetheless the volume ends with a vision of a future whereby communities from below both activists and people simply following their communal interests can come together to create a society that overcomes racism Its final chapter is a hopeful call by Immanuel Wallerstein for people to make small changes that together can bring real about real revolutionary change

Inclusion in Post-Conflict Legislatures Michael Potter, 2019-09-10 An excellent analysis of the complex dynamics of inclusion in post conflict societies theoretically grounded empirically rich and with a well informed set of policy relevant insights and recommendations with implications far beyond the cases of Kosovo and Northern Ireland Stefan Wolff University of Birmingham UK Does the promotion of political accommodation between the contending parties in an ethno nationalist conflict disadvantage other groups in society This important question is at the heart of Michael Potter s nuanced study of post settlement parliaments in Kosovo and Northern Ireland in which he probes their record of representativeness focusing on gender and ethnicity His meticulous research drawing on extensive fieldwork shows that the domination of the parliaments by parties aligned to the conflict does indeed tend to marginalise other identities His findings provide plenty of food for thought for practitioners in the field of conflict resolution In particular they underline the need for care in the design of institutional arrangements for deeply divided societies so as to minimise potentially negative consequences that priority for accommodation and reconciliation may have for other issues and for the practice of inclusion

Adrian Guelke Queen s University Belfast UK Identity is a central organising principle of politics in the 21st century In this impressive book Michael Potter shows that a focus on gender and minority ethnic identities in newly formed post conflict assemblies provides a unique litmus test of the robustness of democratic politics He analyses the cases of Kosovo and Northern Ireland with rigour and considerable insight This book makes a highly original and lasting contribution to theory and practice in post conflict settings world wide Yvonne Galligan Dublin Institute of Technology Ireland This book examines inclusion in post conflict legislatures using Northern Ireland and Kosovo as case studies and gender and minority ethnicity as indicators The analysis uses an adapted framework developed by Yvonne Galligan and Sara Clavero to measure inclusion across a range of factors associated with deliberative democratic principles The logic is that political systems designed to accommodate communities in conflict will prioritise certain identities over others The aim of the book is to investigate how identities not directly associated with a conflict fare in a political system designed to manage identities in conflict The book looks comparatively at the conflicts in Kosovo and Northern Ireland then discusses approaches to conflict management describing how political institutions were designed in those contexts The themes of women and minority identities in those conflicts are then explored with a view to examining the extent of inclusion in the Northern Ireland and Kosovo Assemblies
