CCF Colonialism in Northern Saskatchewan David Quiring, 2004 Often remembered for its humanitarian platform and its pioneering social programs Saskatchewan's Cooperative Commonwealth Federation CCF wrought a much less scrutinized legacy in the northern regions of the province during the twenty years it governed Until the 1940s churches fur traders and their wealthy outsiders held uncontested control over Saskatchewan's northern region Following its rise to power in 1944 the CCF undertook aggressive efforts to unseat these traditional powers and to install a new socialist economy and society in largely Aboriginal northern communities The next two decades brought major changes to the region as well meaning government planners grossly misjudged the challenges that confronted the north and failed to implement programs that would meet northern needs As the CCF's efforts to modernize and assimilate northern people met with frustration it was the northern people themselves who inevitably suffered from the fallout of this failure In an elegantly written history that documents the colonial relationship between the CCF and the Saskatchewan north David M Quiring draws on extensive archival research and oral history to offer a fresh look at the CCF era This examination will find a welcome audience among historians of the north Aboriginal scholars and general readers

Baptists and Public Life in Canada Gordon L. Heath, Paul R. Wilson, 2012-02-02 Public discussion about the relationship between religion and public life in Canada can be heated at times and scholars have recently focused on the historical study of the many expressions of this relationship The experience of Canada's smaller Protestant Christian groups however has remained largely unexplored This is particularly true of Canada's Baptists This volume the first produced by the Canadian Baptist Historical Society explores the connections between Baptist faith and Baptist activity in the public domain and expands the focus of the existing scholarship to include a wide range of Canadian Baptist beliefs attitudes perspectives and actions related to the relationship between Baptist faith and practice and public life False Expectations Dale Eisler, University of Regina. Canadian Plains Research Center, 2006 Myth has played an important and ongoing role in the development of Saskatchewan s political economy First during the time of the National Policy Saskatchewan was portrayed to immigrants as a promised land This period served as the psychological and economic foundation for the province When belief in Saskatchewan as a promised land was shattered by the Great Depression and Dirty Thirties the myth was reconstituted through the inspiration of the social gospel It was then politically reinvigorated in the meaning of medicare and has been expressed in recent decades through the competing visions for economic development Through all these eras no matter what the tides of politics there remained one constant the singular collective idea that Saskatchewan was a special place with unrealized potential The challenge for the public dialogue of Saskatchewan as the province enters its second century is to not replay the mistakes of the past Saskatchewan people must recognize the role that myth has played and must continue to play in the life of the province But at the same time they must differentiate it from reality by understanding the power of myth as a force for progress and its potential to create false expectations Debates of the Senate: Official Report (Hansard). Canada. Parliament.
