Delirious Consumption Sergio Delgado Moya, 2017-10-11 In the decades following World War II the creation and expansion of massive domestic markets and relatively stable economies allowed for mass consumption on an unprecedented scale giving rise to the consumer society that exists today Many avant garde artists explored the nexus between consumption and aesthetics questioning how consumerism affects how we perceive the world place ourselves in it and make sense of it via perception and emotion Delirious Consumption focuses on the two largest cultural economies in Latin America Mexico and Brazil and analyzes how their artists and writers both embraced and resisted the spirit of development and progress that defines the consumer moment in late capitalism Sergio Delgado Moya looks specifically at the work of David Alfaro Siqueiros the Brazilian concrete poets Octavio Paz and Lygia Clark to determine how each of them arrived at forms of aesthetic production balanced between high modernism and consumer culture He finds in their works a provocative positioning vis vis urban commodity capitalism an ambivalent position that takes an assured but flexible stance against commodification alienation and the politics of domination and inequality that defines market economies In Delgado Moya's view these poets and artists appeal to uselessness nonutility and noncommunication all markers of the aesthetic while drawing on the terms proper to a world of consumption and consumer culture

Spanish Poetry of the Twentieth Century Andrew Debicki, 2014-10-17 Twentieth century Spanish poetry has received comparatively little attention from critics writing in English Andrew Debicki now presents the first English language history published in the United States to examine the sweep of modern Spanish verse More important he is the first to situate Spanish poetry in the context of European modernity to trace its trajectory from the symbolists to the postmodernists Avoiding the rigid generational schemes and catalogs of names found in traditional Hispanic literary histories Debicki offers detailed discussions of salient books and texts to construct an original and compelling view of his subject He demonstrates that contemporary Spanish verse is rooted in the modern tradition and poetics that see the text as a unique embodiment of complex experiences He then traces the evolution of that tradition in the early decades of the century and its gradual disintegration from the 1950s to the present as Spanish poetry came to reflect features of the postmodern especially the poetics of text as process rather than as product By centering his study on major periods and examining within each the work of poets of different ages Debicki develops novel perspectives The late 1960s and early 1970s for example were not merely the setting for a new aestheticist generation but an era of exceptional creativity in which both established and new writers engendered a profound intertextual and often self referential lyricism This book will be essential reading for specialists in modern Spanish letters for advanced students and for readers interested in comparative literature

The Poetry of Francisco Brines Judith Nantell, 1994 Brines's seven poetry collections offer a sustained inquiry into three fundamental philosophical themes knowledge the present moment and non being These themes however are presented as conflictual differences The numerous poetic voices heard throughout his poetry continually wrestle with knowledge perpetually oscillating with ignorance the present moment unceasingly becoming past and human existence endlessly displaying its own finitude In this study the critical interpretation of these themes leads to the critical exploration of language the signifying process of language and the warring forces of signification The sign is thus viewed as a structure of difference and as such it endlessly displays the duplicitous nature of language engaged in a semantic struggle with itself
