Verbintensifier Collocations In English:

Phraseology in English Academic Writing Peter Andrew Howarth, 2013-05-22 This study examines the use of one category of prefabricated language restricted lexical collocations in native and non native academic English in the social sciences in an attempt to throw light on a neglected aspect of learner competence It first surveys the existing theoretical viewpoints on word combinations and then reviews experimental research into the psycholinguistic processing of prefabricated language which suggest that the role of conventional expressions is to facilitate fluent production and rapid comprehension A computer based corpus of native academic writing is analysed to discover to what extent and how such collocations are used in formal written English Conventionality of style it is suggested aids precision of expression clearly a quality highly valued in academic argument A corpus of non native writing is then subjected to a similar analysis While the collocational errors learners make do not on the whole seriously destroy intelligibility they can lead to a lack of precision and obscure the clarity of expression required in academic communication Pedagogical implications are then considered and it is seen that for the most part published teaching materials have failed to recognize the nature of collocations in general and offer little help The final part of the study examines the treatment of restricted collocations in both general and phraseological dictionaries for learners These are evaluated on their selection and presentation of collocations shown by the preceding research to be problematic for advanced learners The conclusion suggests that for such learners who are mostly studying the language independently good reference works are needed in the form of specialist collocational dictionaries The results of this research help to establish principles for the design of such dictionaries

,1990 Investigating Dickens' Style M. Hori, 2016-05-20 This new corpus driven approach to the study of language and style of literary texts makes use of the Dickens 4 6 million word corpus for a detailed examination of patterns of lexical collocations It offers new insights into Dickens linguistic innovation together with a nuanced understanding of his use of language to achieve stylistic ends At the centre of the study is a close analysis of the two narratives in Bleak House read as a focal point for consideration of Dickens stylistic development through his whole writing life

Lexis and Creativity in Translation Dorothy Kenny, 2014-04-08 Computers offer new perspectives in the study of language allowing us to see phenomena that previously remained obscure because of the limitations of our vantage points It is not uncommon for computers to be likened to the telescope or microscope in this respect In this pioneering computer assisted study of translation Dorothy Kenny suggests another image that of the kaleidoscope playful changes of perspective using corpus processing software allow textual patterns to come into focus and then recede again as others take their place And against the background of repeated patterns in a corpus creative uses of language gain a particular prominence In Lexis and Creativity in Translation Kenny monitors the translation of creative source text word forms and collocations uncovered in a specially constructed German English parallel corpus of literary texts Using an abundance of examples she reveals evidence of both normalization and ingenious creativity in translation Her discussion of lexical creativity draws on insights from traditional morphology structural semantics and most notably neo Firthian corpus linguistics suggesting that rumours of the demise of linguistics in translation studies are greatly exaggerated Lexis and Creativity in Translation is essential reading for anyone interested in corpus linguistics and its impact so far on translation studies The book also offers theoretical and practical guidance for researchers who wish to conduct their own corpus based investigations of translation No previous knowledge of German corpus linguistics or computing is assumed Toward an Understanding of Language Peter H.

Fries, Nancy M. Fries, 1985-01-01 Charles C Fries 1887 1967 was a major figure in American linguistics and language education during the first half of the 20th century Theoretical innovation and practical implementation were important threads that ran throughout his work Fries believed that the attempt to deal with practical problems was a vital part of developing linguistic theory He spent most of his effort exploring grammar as a tool for communicating meaning Charles C Fries was quite influential in the development of linguistics in the United States and yet in some ways remained outside of the mainstream of the linguistics he helped to develop The contributors to this volume were asked to present and evaluate some aspect of Fries work and to show how similar ideas are being used today The Collocation of Adverbs of Degree in English Ulf Bäcklund, 1973

Negative Contexts Ton van der Wouden, 2002-11-01 This research emphasizes semantic syntactic and pragmatic considerations illustrating a wide array of linguistic approaches Written from within the theoretical framework of Generalized Quantifiers the three main areas considered are collocations polarity items and multiple negations

A Comparative Study of Wh-Words in Chinese Efl Textbooks, Elicited Native and Non-Native Speaker Data and Written Native and Non-Native Speaker Corpora Feifei Zhang, 2015-06-24 This study presents a corpus based analysis of the use of wh sentences by language learners in language textbooks and in authentic written discourse It focuses on the polysemous nature of wh words which can be used as interrogatives declaratives and to introduce subordinate clauses The analysis of wh sentences in EFL textbooks showed that there are more prototypical examples at low proficiency levels When teaching the interrogative textbooks focus almost exclusively on grammatical words particularly at the beginners level The analysis of wh sentences elicited from Chinese speaking learners of English and Expert users of English suggested that the prototypical structure is very strong in both sets of data although native speakers tend to use more prefabricated chunks of language The analysis of wh sentences from native speakers and non native speakers written corpora suggested that subordinate clauses are strongly present in both corpora except for the word why in non native speakers data The use of different words occurring immediately after wh words in the two corpora can be explained by 1 the relatively small vocabulary size of the L2 speakers 2 non native speakers lack of awareness of restricted collocations 3 L1 transfer 4 over under generalization of rules and 5 textbooks
