Las hijas de los conquistadores Rosa María Zúñiga, 2009

Heterotropías Carlos A. Jáuregui, Juan Pablo Dabove, 2003 Hay un riesgo en la relación entre crítica y producción textual ya que puede ser inevitablemente metafórica Esta relación está cargada de peligros tanto políticos como teóricos Este volumen asume ese riesgo sabiendo del carácter ineludible de la metáfora cultural como herramienta crítica y como materia misma de las narrativas de identidad Los artículos de este volumen estudian diversos tropos culturales que hemos llamado heterotropías centrales en la construcción y redefinición de identidades y alteridades de América Latina Las heterotropías nos hablan de nosotros y de los Otros y principalmente del espacio vertiginoso e inestable en el que se dan las prácticas de significación cultural Las 6 secciones de este volumen abordan respectivamente los siguientes problemas relativos la constitución de tropos imperiales en relación con la invención de un Nuevo Mundo y las fantasmas poscoloniales que buscan conjurar los traumas de la colonialidad los conflictos en torno a la representación hegemónica y no hegemónica de las insurgencias que traman y tensan el tejido social latinoamericano las narrativas donde la disolución de los tropos de la modernidad neocolonial occidentalista androcéntrica y racionalista latinoamericana sirve para pensar las limitaciones de la conciencia letrada que históricamente fuera interpretada privilegiada del discursar sociocultural los relatos en los que se examina la constitución disciplinaria de cuerpos díscales Foucault y la manera en los que estos resisten y potencian las posibilidades políticas del cuerpo las narrativas que exploran afirmaciones identitarias en torno a la lengua y la raza como modos de cancelar la marca racial lingüística cultural económica asignada al sujeto americano y la condición y crisis posmoderna de las macro identidades en el marco de los procesos de globalización y desterritorialización y la consiguiente reconfiguración de narrativas no esencialistas que recuperan la viabilidad política de algunas metáforas There is an inherent risk in the relationship between criticism and textual production since it can be inevitably metaphorical This relationship is fraught with both political and theoretical dangers This volume assumes this risk knowing the inescapable nature of the cultural metaphor as a critical tool and as the very essence of identity narratives The articles in this volume study various cultural tropes that we have called heterotropies central to the construction and redefinition of identities and otherness in Latin America Heterotropies speak to us about ourselves and about the other and mainly about the vertiginous and unstable space in which practices of cultural significance take place The 6 sections of this volume respectively address the following relative problems the constitution of imperial tropes in relation to the invention of a New World and postcolonial fantasies that seek to ward off the traumas of coloniality the conflicts around the hegemonic and non hegemonic representation of the insurgencies that plot and strain the Latin American social fabric the narratives where the dissolution of the tropes of neocolonial westernist androcentric and rationalist Latin American modernity serves to think about the limitations of the literate conscience that historically was a privileged interpreter of sociocultural development the stories in which the disciplinary constitution of docile bodies Foucault is examined and the way in which they resist and enhance the political poetic possibilities of the body the narratives that explore identity statements around language and race as ways to cancel the mark racial linguistic cultural economic assigned to the American subject and the postmodern condition and crisis of macro identities within the framework of globalization and deterritorialization processes and the consequent reconfiguration of non essentialist narratives that recover the political viability of some metaphors
