Trends In Ecological Research For The 1980s Nato Conference Series I Ecology:

Trends in Ecological Research for the 1980s June H. Cooley, 2013-03-13 Is ecology at a crossroad After three decades of rapid though somewhat anarchic development many ecologists now are beginning to ask this question They have the feeling of no longer belonging to a unified and mature scientific discipline Many of them claim to be mere empiricists whereas others are proud to be considered theoreticians Each side has its own journals and holds its own specialists meetings tending to disregard the achievements of the other The communication gap between the two schools is quickly widening to the detriment of both To make things worse the word ecology now has a different meaning for the professional biologists and the general public Ecology is still considered as a creditable though rather soft scientific discipline by the former whereas it is perceived as a new non conformist political philosophy by the latter Empirical ecologists are fundamentally naturalists who enjoy the immense complexity of the natural world and devote their lifetimes to the description of the many adaptive characteristics morphological biological or behavioral of the hundreds of thousands of species sharing the earth with us They generally are ignorant of if not allergic to the use of any mathematical representation of living phenomena They feel that ecological theory is rapidly becoming a mathematical game that has lost any contact with the realities of life

Natural Resources And People Kenneth A. Dahlberg, 2019-03-08 In this book the authors provides an up to date assessment of research on human interactions with natural resource systems They pay attention to the interaction between theory and practice by including case studies and detailed examples involving specific natural resource systems

Igapó (Black-water flooded forests) of the Amazon Basin Randall W. Myer, 2018-10-22 Igap forests are a common part of the Amazon whose ecosystems are critical to our shared human future The introduction addresses the structure function and dynamics of igap forests in the Amazon basin focusing on their uniqueness due to their high level of complexity defined as the many ways that different components of igap forests in the Amazon basin ecosystem interact and also on how those interactions are on a higher order compared to other tropical forests The text then breaks down the igap ecosystem using these sections 1 Igap forests over space and time 2 Water light and soils 3 The carbon cycle 4 Litter fungi and invertebrates 5 Vertebrates 6 Plant population studies 7 Plant community studies and 8 Human impacts and management Experts from around the world serve as chapter authors that review what is known about their specific part of the igap ecosystem what research they have done and also what needs to be done in the future

Insect Biodiversity Robert G. Foottit, Peter H. Adler, 2009-03-03 Insect Biodiversity Science and Society brings together leading scientific experts to assess the impact insects have on humankind and the earth's fragile ecosystems It examines why insect biodiversity matters and how the rapid evolution of insect species is affecting us all Insects and related arthropods make up more than 50 percent of the known animal diversity globally yet a lack of knowledge about insects is hindering the advance of science and society This book explores the wide variety in type and number of insect species and their evolutionary relationships Case studies offer assessments on how insect biodiversity can help meet the needs of a rapidly expanding human population and also examine the consequences that an increased loss of insect species will have on the world The book concludes that a better understanding of the biology and ecology of insects is the only way to sustainably manage ecosystems in an ever changing global environment

Biodiversity II A Joseph Henry Press book, 1996-09-16 The book before you carries the urgent warning that we are rapidly altering and destroying the environments that have fostered the diversity of life forms for more than a billion years With those words Edward O Wilson opened the landmark volume Biodiversity National Academy Press 1988 Despite this and other such alarms species continue to vanish at a rapid rate taking with them their genetic legacy and potential benefits Many disappear before they can even be identified Biodiversity II is a renewed call for urgency This volume updates readers on how much we already know and how much remains to be identified scientifically It explores new strategies for quantifying understanding and protecting biodiversity including New approaches to the integration of electronic data including a proposal for a U S National Biodiversity Information Center Application of techniques developed in the human genome project to species identification and classification The Gap Analysis Program of the National Biological Survey which uses layered satellite climatic and biological data to assess distribution and better manage biodiversity The significant contribution of museum collections to identifying and categorizing species which is essential for understanding ecological function and for targeting organisms and regions at risk The book describes our growing understanding of how megacenters of diversity e g rainforest insects coral reefs are formed maintained and lost what can be learned from mounting bird extinctions and how conservation efforts for neotropical primates have fared It also explores ecosystem restoration sustainable development and agricultural impact Biodiversity II reinforces the idea that the conservation of our biological resources is within reach as long as we pool resources better coordinate the efforts of existing institutions museums universities and government agencies already dedicated to this goal and enhance support for research collections and training This volume will be important to environmentalists biologists ecologists educators students and concerned individuals

Ecoaccidents John Cairns, 2013-03-13 Dr Hueck explains in the History and Development of the NATO Advanced Research Workshop some ideas on the genesis of the Workshop The reader should understand that this volume is a preliminary analysis of a problem that has not received much attention The case histories for example are illustrative because one volume cannot include all histories or even those in Europe Consequently case histories are lacking on many parts of the world including central Europe and North America not because these are unimportant or less disastrous ecologically than the case histories covered but because selecting only a few illustrative cases was possible The geographic and ecological coverage was originally much broader but unfortunately some participants were unable to attend and this resulted in an even more skewed distribution geographically. However, participants generally agreed that the information necessary to analyze the problem was covered in sufficient depth by those in attendance and that other case histories would have been interesting but would probably not have caused substantive changes in the conclusions or recommendations. The Workshop organizers did not selectively choose people, companies, or countries to the exclusion of others. The committee selected a broad array of people, countries, and industries, and the participants were those able to come, prepare a manuscript, and meet the other conditions. Thus, what appears to be a skewed distribution was not planned as such but was the consequence of people being unable to attend for various reasons.

Urban Ecology as the Basis of Urban Planning Herbert Sukopp, Makoto Numata, Almut Huber, 1995 Invertebrate Biodiversity as Bioindicators of Sustainable Landscapes Maurizio G. Paoletti, 2012-12-02 Reducing environmental hazard and human impact on different ecosystems with special emphasis on rural landscapes is the main topic of different environmental policies designed in developed countries and needed in most developing countries. This book covers the bioindication approach of rural landscapes and man-managed ecosystems including both urbanised and industrialised ones. The main techniques and taxa used for bioindication are considered in detail. Remediation and contamination is faced with diversity, abundance, and dominance of biota, mostly invertebrates. Invertebrate Biodiversity as Bioindicators of Sustainable Landscapes provides a basic tool for students and scientists involved in landscape ecology and planning environmental sciences, landscape remediation, and pollution. Mediterranean Marine Ecosystems Maria Moraitou-Apostolopoulou, 2013-11-11 This book contains the papers presented at a NATO Advanced Research Institute on Mediterranean Marine Ecosystems held at Heraklion, Crete, Greece, from September 23-27, 1983. A workshop rather than a conference, it was sponsored by the Eco Sciences Special Programme Panel in cooperation with the Marine Science Panel. The third of its kind, it was scheduled in the framework of a project on a multidisciplinary integrated approach to the study of the Mediterranean. This Sea and the surrounding land was not only the cradle of many civilizations but is up to the present time one of the major world areas of marine traffic, communication, and exchanges. Fisheries and aquacultures, inshore human activities, and pollution. To a certain degree, it constitutes a gigantic natural laboratory where the fate of threatened aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems, including the human one, is tested. The Mediterranean Sea, with its geological history and present-day geographic, hydrological, and climatic conditions, is believed to form an ecological entity. Important exchanges and mutual influences take place with the surrounding land area and the water masses: naturally, Atlantic, Black Sea, or artificially, Red Sea, connected to the Mediterranean. Therefore, a better and in-depth knowledge of the various ecosystems: benthic, planktonic, and nektonic; neritic or pelagic in the Western or the Eastern Basin, seems to be a prerequisite to any action in preserving, upgrading, and managing the natural resources of the area. Global Biodiversity World Conservation Monitoring Centre, 2012-12-06 Global Biodiversity is the most comprehensive compendium of conservation information ever published.
