The volume covers the phenomenon of juvenile homicide from beginning to end by addressing the questions: why do kids kill, all the way to how does society stop them from killing. The tough issues involved in sentencing youths who take the lives of others often deliberately and in horrific ways are confronted through chapters addressing the legal issues, child development factors, risk assessment, public attitudes and ethical concerns. Contributors include psychologists, psychiatrists, criminologists, sociologists, lawyers, economists, biologists, epidemiologists and public health and public policy experts. Uniquely, they examine murder by juveniles across the globe. The volume includes research pertaining to the causes, correlates and theoretical explanations of juvenile homicide offending. In addition, it draws attention to the empirical factors associated with juvenile homicide offending, effective treatment of JHOs, recidivism and prevention of violent behavior. The volume also makes recommendations for policy and practice, including how to shift government policy from punishing lawbreakers to saving lives. This volume is essential reading for scholars and students researching youth violence, juvenile homicide across a variety of disciplines including criminology, criminal justice, law, psychology, psychiatry, sociology, social work, public health and education.
