No Communication with the Sea Tim Sullivan, 2010-11-15 Few other places in the United States are as high dry sparsely inhabited and urbanized as the Great Basin of Utah and Nevada The great majority of the population of this rapidly growing region lives in the two metropolitan areas at its edges Salt Lake City and the Wasatch Front and Reno and the Truckee Meadows These cities embody the allure and the challenge of the contemporary American West deemed by some The New American Heartland

No Communication with the Sea is a journey through this urbanizing Great Basin landscape Here the land fosters illusions of limitless space and resources but its space and resources are severely limited its people live clustered in cities but are often reluctant to embrace urbanity These tensions led journalist and urban planner Tim Sullivan to explore the developing centers and edges of the Great Basin cities and the ways some are trying to build livable and sustainable urban environments In this highly readable book of creative nonfiction Sullivan employs a variety of methods including interviews research travelogues and narrative to survey the harsh landscape for clues to the ways cities can adapt to their geography topography ecology hydrography history and culture

No Communication with the Sea embarks on a quest for a livable future for the heart of the interior West In the process it both unearths the past and ponders the present and future Great Basin cities

Intermountain West is home to some of the world's rarest and most fascinating animals and plants. Creatures of Habitat details many unique but little known talents of this region's strange and wonderful wild inhabitants and describes their connections with native environments. For example, readers will learn about the pronghorn antelope's supercharged cardiovascular system, a brine shrimp powered shorebird that each year flies nonstop from the Great Salt Lake to Central Argentina, and a rare mustard plant recently discovered on Mount Ogden. Emphasizing how increasing loss and degradation of habitat hinders native species survival, Mark Gerard Hengesbaugh discusses what is happening to wildlife and wild places and what is being done about it. Well illustrated, this book has habitat maps, pen and ink illustrations, and fifty photos of wildlife and wild places selected by photo editor Dan Miller. Also included are guides to wildlife viewing and lists of Utah species including those considered sensitive, threatened, or endangered.
