Visual Pattern Analyzers, 2001 Pattern Recognition and Applications María Inés Torres, Alberto Sanfeliu, 2000

This book deals with novel scientific and technology research in Pattern Recognition and Applications. It presents a selection of papers that summarises the main research activities in these areas developed in Spanish research centres. It includes thirty-one works organized into four categories reflecting the present areas of interest in the Spanish Pattern Recognition Community. Pattern Recognition: this Section includes new approaches related to classical pattern classification problems and methodologies like multi-edit algorithm, gradient descent methods, hierarchical clustering, nearest neighbours, rule tree, language compression, function described graphs, etc. Computer Vision: this Section presents new methods in colour segmentation, visual tracking, alignment in 3D reconstruction, trademark search techniques, visual behaviours for binocular navigation and active vision systems. Speech Recognition and Translation: this Section consists of five papers related to continuous speech recognition and statistical translation. They include new proposals in acoustic and language models based on Connectionist and Syntactic Pattern Recognition approaches. Applications in Computer Vision: Speech Recognition and Translation: this Section deals with digital TV, biomedical images, mammography, trabecular bone patterns and new calibration methods for large surface topography. These papers are a good summary of the Spanish research in the fields of Pattern Recognition and Image Analysis as well as in their Applications.

The Neural and Behavioural Organization of Goal-directed Movements Marc Jeannerod, 1990. Goal-directed movement is central to the relationship between brain and behavior in humans and other animals. This book presents a detailed investigation of the topic, one that integrates psychology and physiology. The author's account is based on a large body of experimental data from human and animal work with particular emphasis on clinical cases. It probes such questions as: Are complex movements organized on the same mode as simple ones? How rigidly organized are coordinated actions like orienting or grasping? Where do visual feedback signals arise? The author's work takes into account the growing acceptance of the idea that movements are not directly dependent upon sensory events but that they are governed by internal representations which are built according to specific experimentally accessible rules.

Binocular Vision and Stereopsis Ian P. Howard, Brian J. Rogers, 1995. This book is a survey of knowledge about binocular vision with an emphasis on its role in the perception of a three-dimensional world. The primary interest is biological vision. In each chapter, physiological, behavioral, and computational approaches are reviewed in some detail, discussed, and interrelated. The authors describe experiments required to answer specific questions and relate them to new terminologies and current theoretical schemes.

Major Issues in Cognitive Aging Timothy Salthouse, 2010. In recent years the field of cognitive aging has flourished and expanded into many different disciplines. It is probably therefore inevitable that some of the research has become very narrow primarily focused on counting and classifying the wrinkles of aged behavior rather than addressing more broad general and important questions Timothy Salthouse's main goal in this book is to try to identify some of the major phenomena in the field of cognitive aging and discuss issues relevant to the investigation and interpretation of them He does not attempt to provide a comprehensive survey of the research literature on aging and cognition because many excellent reviews are available in edited handbooks His principal aim is rather to stimulate readers to think about the big questions in cognitive aging research and how they might best be answered Causal Architecture, Complexity and Self-organization in the Time Series and Cellular Automata Cosma Rohilla Shalizi, 2001 Journal of the

Optical Society of America, 2005 Visual Reflections Michael McCloskey, 2009-04-30 How much can we learn about normal visual perception and cognition from a malfunctioning visual system Quite a lot as Michael McCloskey makes abundantly clear in this book McCloskey presents his work with AH a college student who has an extraordinary deficit in visual perception When AH looks at an object she sees it clearly and identifies it readily yet she is often dramatically mistaken about where the object is or how it is oriented For example she may reach out to grasp an object that she sees on her left but miss it completely because it is actually on her right or she may see an arrow pointing up when it is really pointing down AH's errors together with many other clues lead McCloskey to some very interesting conclusions about how we perceive the world He develops theoretical claims about visual subsystems the nature of visual location and orientation representations attention and spatial representations the role of the visual system in mental imagery and the levels of the visual system implicated in awareness Visual Reflections makes a fascinating and compelling case that we can often learn more about a process when it goes awry than when it functions flawlessly Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1990
