chemistry and logic have in common? They are the basis for a unit that lets students become actively engaged in discovering the arrangement of the periodic table. This learning activity takes the periodic table out of the static presentation usually associated with textbooks and chemistry courses and interjects an element of discovery. The two activities in this unit provide students with information that they have to arrange in organized charts. In the process of creating the arrangements, students will be involved in problem solving and will gain an appreciation for the scientific process of exploration and verification. This dynamic unit meets national science standards in seven teaching and content areas. Bring the periodic table to life with this
