

Treating Dementia: Do We Have a Pill for It?

Treatments for age-related dementia and the growing reliance on pharmaceuticals to alleviate its worst symptoms raise a number of questions about attitudes toward aging and cognition, the relationship between growing older and getting sick, and the conflicting interests of patients, caregivers, physicians, scientists, and business. This volume aims to foster a constructive debate about the future of dementia treatment by providing multiple perspectives on these tangled issues. The first section examines how the concepts of dementia have expanded to encompass a broad range of symptoms and the implications of this evolution on the development of pharmaceutical treatments. The second section explores the use and effectiveness of drug treatments for dementia through the perspectives of a clinician, a researcher, and a layperson. In the third section, the contributors probe how culture, language, and values affect the overlapping worlds of pharmacology, drug marketing, and dementia treatment. A final section elucidates the thorny ethical and policy concerns surrounding the often-conflicting hopes for dementia medications. Featuring contributions from noted clinicians, researchers, and scholars from a broad range of disciplines, this multidisciplinary dialogue addresses central questions about the history and future of drug treatment for dementia and makes clear why there are no simple answers. Professionals and students involved in gerontology, psychiatry, and bioethics will find the discussion both enlightening and practical.

Curing Medicare Andy Lazris,2016-06-14 Andy Lazris MD is a practicing primary care physician who experiences the effects of Medicare policy on a daily basis As a result he believes that the way we care for our elderly has taken a wrong turn and that Medicare is complicit in creating the very problems it seeks to solve Aging is not a disease to be cured it is a life stage to be lived Lazris argues that aggressive treatments cannot change that fact but only get in the way and decrease quality of life Unfortunately Medicare s payment structure and rules deprive the elderly of the chance to pursue less aggressive care which often yields the most humane and effective results Medicare encourages and will pay more readily for hospitalization than for palliative and home care It encourages and pays for high tech assaults on disease rather than for the primary care that can make a real difference in the lives of the elderly Lazris offers straightforward solutions to ensure Medicare s solvency through sensible cost effective plans that do not restrict patient choice or negate the doctor patient relationship Using both data and personal stories he shows how Medicare needs to change in structure and purpose as the population ages the physician pool becomes more specialized and new medical technology becomes available Curing Medicare demonstrates which medical interventions medicines tests procedures work and which can be harmful in many common conditions in the elderly the harms and benefits of hospitalization the current culture of long term care and how Medicare often promotes care that is ineffective expensive and contrary to what many elderly patients and their families really want Geriatric

Home-Based Medical Care Jessica L. Colburn, Bruce Leff, Mariah L. Robertson, Mattan Schuchman, 2024-11-25 Older adults are living longer with more chronic disease and functional impairment than at any other time in history Office based practice is inadequate to meet the needs of patients who have difficulty leaving their homes for routine or urgent visits and health care clinicians must choose between trying to manage their problems via telehealth or sending them to the emergency room via ambulance Indeed many clinicians receive little or no training in home based medical care and are unable to consider a home visit that might avert a health crisis or an emergency room visit Other clinicians know that house calls are possible but may not know how to work them into day to day practice In recent years a growing number of clinicians have focused their practice on home based medical care to meet the rising need In fact there has been a substantial increase in house calls provided to Medicare beneficiaries In 2023 over 750 000 traditional Medicare beneficiaries and in 2022 over 680 000 Medicare Advantage beneficiaries received longitudinal home based medical care While the number of house calls has increased rapidly the number of clinicians providing those visits has markedly decreased suggesting that clinicians who are providing such care are making it the sole focus of their practice This book is intended to be a practical reference for any clinician who has struggled to care for an older adult who has difficulty getting to the office By describing fundamental principles of geriatric house call medicine and application to specific diseases and conditions we hope to provide clinicians with the tools they need to provide timely compassionate and high quality care for their older adult patients The second edition has been updated to reflect changes in the healthcare system and approaches to care since the publication of the first edition Developing a Drug to Treat Alzheimer's Disease Jay Wright, 2024-06-27 This book's focus is on Alzheimer's

Practical Pharmacology for Alzheimer's Disease Takashi Kudo, Kenneth L. Davis, Rafael Blesa Gonzalez, David George Wilkinson, 2016-02-10 In this book the four leading experts on the ACE inhibitors donepezil galantamine and rivastigmine and the NMDA receptor antagonist memantine explain the practical pharmacology of these symptomatic drugs with the aim of providing a sound basis for their clinical use in patients with Alzheimer's disease In addition an introductory chapter considers the basic theory of pharmacology for Alzheimer's disease and the book closes with an overview of the ways in which symptomatic drugs for dementia are used The wide acceptance of the amyloid cascade hypothesis has led to vigorous development of disease modifying drugs for Alzheimer's disease such as amyloid vaccinations and gamma or beta secretase inhibitors The failure of clinical trials of these drugs to yield satisfactory results has however meant that for the time being patients continue to be treated only with symptomatic drugs There is accordingly a need to become more proficient in the use of symptomatic medicines and it is against the background of this quest that Practical Pharmacology for Alzheimer's Disease will be of wide interest
