Assessment Criteria Anders Jönsson, Frans Prins, 2019-04-03 In many schools and higher education institutions it has become common practice to share assessment criteria with students Sometimes it is required for accountability purposes at other times criteria are used as a means to communicate expectations to students However the idea that explicit assessment criteria should be shared with students has been contested On the one hand research has shown that explicit criteria may positively affect student performance reduce their anxiety as well as support students use of self regulated learning strategies On the other hand there are fears that explicit criteria may have a restraining influence on students learning as well as limiting their autonomy and creativity There are also indications of students becoming more performance oriented as opposed to learning oriented when being provided with explicit assessment criteria Taken together it is not fully understood under which circumstances it is productive for student learning to share explicit assessment criteria and under which circumstances it is not In particular empirical research on the proposed negative effects of sharing criteria with learners is limited and most fears voiced in the literature are based on individual experiences and anecdotal evidence In this book we therefore bring different perspectives on transparency in assessment together in order to further our understanding of how students are influenced by the use of explicit assessment criteria A deeper understanding of the influence of explicit assessment criteria on students understanding of criteria motivation and learning is equally imperative for future research and educational practice both of which need to go beyond individual opinions and convictions Creating Standards-Based

Classroom Assessment Peter W. Airasian, 2001 Airasian presents complex concepts clearly so that pre service teachers can understand them and solidly grounds these concepts in best practice through practical real well integrated examples He talks to not at users The text conceives of classroom assessment in a broader way than many other texts It focuses not only on the assessment needs of testing grading interpreting standardized tests and performance assessments but also on assessment concerns in organizing a classroom at the start of school planning and implementing instruction and strategies of teacher self reflection It views classroom assessment as an everyday ongoing integral part of teaching not something that is separated from life in classrooms The text is organized in a manner that follows the natural progression of teacher decision making from organizing the class as a learning community to planning and conducting instruction to the formal evaluation of learning and finally to grading
