To Freedom Through China Escaping From Japanese Occupied Hong Kong:

To Freedom Through China Anthony Hewitt, Tony Hewitt, 2004 This is the thrilling story of how the author with two colleagues broke out of their POW camp in Hong Kong and made their way through Japanese lines into the vast expanse of China Capture meant almost certain torture and lingering slow death Their adventures make for spellbinding suspense Once through Japanese lines their troubles were by no means over as a state of lawlessness prevailed in China and brigands and cutthroats stood between the three men and freedom Yet they also met with their share of hospitality and generosity by those prepared to risk everything to help them on their epic journey

Battle for Hong Kong, December 1941 Philip Cracknell, 2019-07-15 25 December 1941 is known to this day by the people of Hong Kong as Black Christmas The battle for Hong Kong is a story that deserves to be better known

Journal of the Hong Kong Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, 2005

Minorities in Global History Holger Weiss, 2024-04-04 This collection analyses the concept of minority and minorities in global history Taking transnational transregional and comparative approaches it explores narratives of inclusion and exclusion both conceptually and through case studies Exploring examples of marginalization in Imperial Russia early 20th century Korea WWII China and Postcolonial Africa amongst others the chapters in this volume seek to understand the entanglements of fluid minorities and native populations in various historical settings They explore dynamics between nation states and empires minority majority processes in post imperial and post Soviet contexts fourth world perspectives and transnational minority movements Taken together the contributions to this collection address the exposure to and challenge of historical and contemporary treatments of marginalization exclusion belonging and inclusion in global history

An Imperial World at War Ashley Jackson, Yasmin Khan, Gajendra Singh, 2016-07-01 At the start of the Second World War Britain was at the height of its imperial power and it is no surprise that it drew upon the global resources of the Empire once war had been declared Whilst this international aspect of Britain's war effort has been well studied in relation to the military contribution of individual dominions and colonies relatively little has been written about the Empire as a whole As such An Imperial World at War makes an important contribution to the historiography relating to the British Empire and its wartime experience It argues that the war needs to be viewed in imperial terms that the role of forces drawn from the Empire is poorly understood and that the war's impact on colonial societies is barely grasped at all in conventional accounts Through a series of case studies the volume demonstrates the fundamental role played by the Empire in Britain's war effort and highlights some of the consequences for both Britain and its imperial territories Themes include the recruitment and utilization of military formations drawn from imperial territories the experience of British forces stationed overseas the use of strategic bases located in the colonies British policy in the Middle East and the challenge posed by growing American power the occupation of enemy colonies and the enemy occupation of British colonies colonial civil defence measures financial support for the war effort supplied by the Empire and the commemoration of the war The Afterword anticipates a new decentred history of the war that properly acknowledges the role and importance of people and places throughout the colonial and semi colonial world This volume emanates from a conference organized as part of the Home Fronts of the Empire Commonwealth project The project was generously funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council and led by Yasmin Khan and Ashley Jackson with Gajendra Singh as Postdoctoral Research Assistant Dispersal and Renewal Clifford Matthews, Oswald Cheung, 1998-10-01 In this volume dedicated to the memory of Hong Kong University students faculty and members of the Court who lost their lives as a result of hostilities in the Far East during 1941-1945 we ask what happened to the University during those years of Japanese occupation when there was only the shell of a campus left standing on Pokfulam Road Though physically non-existent the idea of the University persisted as shown by the recollections here of twenty-five contributors many of whom were students of faculty when war broke out Their stories of imprisonment or escape mainly to China help to capture something of the spirit of those challenging times that eventually led to the re-establishing of the University in 1948 and its remarkable growth since then Immigration and the Economy of Hong Kong Kit-chun Lam, Pak Wai Liu, 1998 Since 1995 immigration has been adding more people to the population of Hong Kong than natural increase each year Is there any adverse economic impact of immigration on Hong Kong The authors examine the effect of immigration on wages and employment in the local labour market Captives of Empire Greg Leck, 2006 On the morning of December 8, 1941 thousands of American British Dutch and other civilians of Allied nations living in China awoke to find that their countries were at war with Japan Thousands of miles away from their home countries they were cut off isolated and faced an uncertain future As the rigors of life under the occupation increased they were eventually herded into internment camps known as Civilian Assembly Centres There they experienced starvation rations horrible sanitary conditions virtually no medical care apart from what they provided themselves and an absolute lack of many of the essentials of civilized life Yet through it all internees rose to meet the challenges of survival They placed their hope in the future and educated their children organized kitchens and hospitals started libraries and engaged in subtle forms of resistance Buddha's Not Smiling Erik D. Curren, 2008-01-01 Interest in Buddhism has exploded in the last couple of decades and millions of people around the world view Tibetan Buddhism as the religion's most pure and authentic form Yet a political conflict among Tibetan lamas themselves is now poised to tear the Tibetan Buddhist world apart and threaten the integrity of its thousand-year-old teachings On August 2, 1993 Rumtek monastery was attacked Its monks were expelled and the cloister was turned over to supporters of a boy lamas appointed by the Chinese government But Rumtek was not in China and its attackers were not Communist troops Rumtek was in India the refuge for most exiled Tibetans And it was Tibetan lamas and monks themselves who led the siege Yet evidence shows that Chinese agents directly supported Tibetan lamas and monks who attacked Rumtek monastery While a complete picture of this controversy has been blurred by the media's focus on international Buddhist celebrities Buddha's Not Smiling challenges Readers to Judge for themselves the health of Tibetan
