Metaphorical Practices in Architecture Sarah Borree, Stephanie Knuth, Moritz Röger, 2023-06-23 Metaphors are diversly and intricately embedded in architectural practice and discourse Precisely for this reason this volume argues and sets out to explore how they can be engaged to critically interrogate architecture s social cultural and political dimensions past and present and to productively challenge and intervene with established perspectives debates and practices Mapping out not just potentials but also addressing the challenges limitations and dangers inherent in using metaphors in architectural research and practice the volume prominently illustrates the ambiguity and contradictoriness inherent in both metaphors and the process of engaging and exploiting them Covering a broad range of historical and geographical cases and concerns the contributions illustrate effectively that metaphors can expand or narrow our engagement with architecture and consolidate or legitimise but also destabilise and challenge established social cultural disciplinary and political structures concepts and categories With its aim to explore metaphors as both subject and method to critically challenge and expand established practices perspectives and standards in architectural research and practice the volume will be of interest for scholars working across the architectural humanities including architectural history theory culture design and urbanism as well as for researchers concerned with architecture and the city from fields such as cultural visual and area studies as well as art history

On Site Diagnostics for Architectural Conservation and Restoration Alessia Bianco, 2017-07 The topic of on site diagnostics for historical monumental and vernacular architecture is characterized by a twofold difficulty partially due to a sort of hiatus between the scientific community and a professional system. In fact on one side universities and research centres produce advanced technologies, methodologies and procedures but they are not always adequately disseminated among professionals and are sometimes inconsistent with some relevant criteria such as feasibility and cost effectiveness. On the other side professionals in the field of on site diagnostics for historical architectures are holding a heritage made of experiences and practice which often is not enough shared and sometimes is contrasting with the limited possibilities to evaluate and verify the professional training and certification system which seems too heterogeneous if compared to other high scientific and technical professions as is the case for example in medicine or engineering. In this book the diagnostic experiences are described though for logistical reasons often briefly following a systematic methodological approach according to three of the main steps for the knowledge of historical buildings: anamnesis, diagnosis and prognosis, obviously with particular attention to the specifically diagnostic issues, diagnosis but framed in the preliminary diagnostic plan and interpreted in the light of the performance prefigured in the preliminary stages and connected to the visual inspection. That is why this book regards not only some experimental, unconventional and innovative diagnostic surveys and diagnostic experiences carried out on particularly valuable monumental buildings under the historical architectural point of view but also ordinary and simple experiences in the field of professional diagnostic practice where however it was possible to apply the methodology and the know how acquired and systematized in the performance of the experimental diagnostic surveys often included in wider scientific research projects. This book is not exclusively addressing the scientific and academic community but it also pursues the aim of disseminating in the professional system a heritage of rather varied experimental researches and practical experiences but methodologically oriented toward a culture which considers the design of diagnostic plans as a regulation criterion for quality control of professionals.
