Customer Fraud and Business Responses Kelly T. Tian, Bill Keep, 2001-12-30 From remarkably frank and credible responses to their comprehensive research questionnaire Tian and Keep provide a unique wide ranging catalogue of frauds that customers perpetrate on businesses and what marketers can do to combat it They were able to receive and analyze more than 250 written descriptions a 71% response rate of the acts that customers committed and the methods they used Instead of merely a checklist Tian and Keep obtained their data in the customers own words resulting in highly detailed and reliable insights into why customers did what they did They find that customer fraud has emerged as a form of guerilla warfare against companies that it is adapted to specific situations and that underlying customers motivation is a need to get even Ethics has little do with it In fact some respondents even asserted that they had an obligation to commit fraud they did it to retaliate against what they perceived as unethical acts that businesses committed against them The result is a rare documentation of the specifics of fraud how it threatens not only business but entire economies and the actions bold and subtle that marketers can take in self protective response Not only will corporate management particularly in marketing get detailed descriptions of their customers fraud strategies and tactics but they will also receive insights into where they are vulnerable and why Tian and Keep show that fraud has become so socially acceptable among middle class customers that they are willing to share their tactics strategies and secrets with their friends With this as their foundation the authors give practitioners an arsenal of detection and deterrence methods Equally important they provide ways to implement them without alienating their other blameless customers They also show marketers what they can do to reestablish trust in their marketing exchanges with customers and improve relationships in ways that will diminish if not fully eliminate the incidence of fraud For management generally as well as marketers in companies of all sizes and type Tian s and Keep s book is essential engrossing and useful reading

Preventing Shoplifting Without Being Sued Michael C. Budden, 1999-01-30 Shoplifting is the single largest crime impacting U S retail merchants with annual losses over 21 billion and with merchants spending hundreds of millions of dollars to prevent it To add insult to injury individuals apprehended for shoplifting may sue stores for damages resulting from their apprehension and detention and sometimes win There is good news though States have enacted merchant protection statutes and civil recovery laws which allow retailers to deal more effectively with the problem Merchant protection statutes give retail merchants the right to apprehend and detain individuals suspected of shoplifting while enjoying a conditional privilege of civil liability immunity yet despite the offer of civil liability immunity merchants still lose civil suits with alarming regularity To avoid losses merchants must know and follow the specifics of their state s statutes to enjoy the immunity Well written with numerous real life experiences and sound advice Budden s book will help retail store executives better understand shoplifting s enormous financial hazards to their businesses Budden uses real life cases to show what executives and managers can and cannot do in their efforts to apprehend detain and prosecute shoplifters They will also find up to date advice on using civil recovery laws and information about what is being done to make shoplifters pay for their crimes Budden makes clear that to gain maximum benefit from both merchant protection statutes and civil recovery laws retail store executives must understand how such legal measures work and how best to apply them to reduce inventory shrinkage These retail professionals will find Budden s book a useful guide for developing their own safe workable protection plans
