Papers; revista de sociología, 2008 Youth Participation in Europe Loncle, Patricia, Cuconato, Morena, 2012-10-10 In a period where social unrest manifests itself by coinciding with young people s dissatisfaction with formal political involvement and the diversification of protest movements across the globe the question of youth participation is at the forefront of democratic societies This timely book offers a fresh look at youth participation examining official and unofficial constructions of participation by young people in a range of socio political domains exploring the motivations and rationales underlying official attempts to increase participation among young people and offering a critique of their effectiveness Based on original research data Youth participation in Europe provides a thorough analysis of participation initiatives at the implementation level and gives a transversal approach to various areas of youth participation Drawing on examples from different European countries it analyses the results of structure on youth participation and the effects of youth agencies on types of mobilisation

Understanding Youth Participation Across Europe Hilary Pilkington, Gary Pollock, Renata Franc, 2017-10-07 This edited volume presents findings from a major cross European research project mapping the civic and political engagement of young Europeans in the context of both shared and diverse political heritages Drawing on new survey interview and ethnographic data the authors discuss substantive issues relating to young people s attitudes and activism including attitudes to the European Union and to history understanding of political ideologies how attitudes to democracy are shaped by political heritage activism in radical right wing groups and religion based organisations and digital activism These contributions make the book s case that transnational and multi method projects can enrich our understanding of how young people envisage their place and role in Europe s political and civic space The book challenges methodological assumptions that survey research shows the big picture but at the cost of local nuance or that qualitative research cannot speak beyond the individual case and demonstrates the added explanatory value of triangulating different kinds of data

Understanding Youth Participation Across Europe will be of interest to students and scholars across a range of disciplines including Sociology Political Sociology Youth Studies and Political and Civic Participation Political Engagement of the Young in Europe Peter Thijssen, Jessy Siongers, Jeroen Van Laer, Jacques Haers, Sara Mels, 2015-12-14

Although many scholars are convinced of the apparent civic disengagement of youth others suggest that civic participation of young people is stable and increasingly expressed through non institutionalized forms of practicing politics This book makes a key contribution to this discussion by asking whether the decline or shift paradigm is sufficient in understanding political participation of the youth It argues that we need to move beyond this framework and develop a renewed reflection on the meaning of civic and political engagement It asks crucial questions such as How can the young be educated into assuming civic and political responsibility Why and how do young people engage in social and political action How do the principal mediating institutions education media and the family contribute to new or different forms of youth civic engagement This text contains contributions from acknowledged specialists such as Constance Flanagan Mark Elchardus Marc Hooghe and Bert Klandermans and will be of key interest to students and scholars of youth and young citizens civic political involvement

European politics youth studies sociology political participation and electoral behaviour Youth and Politics in Times of Increasing Inequalities Marco Giugni, Maria Grasso, 2021-07-22

Young people are very often the driving forces of political participation that aims to change societies and political systems Rather than being depoliticized young people in different national contexts are giving rise to alternative politics Drawing on original survey data collected in 2018 this edited volume provides a detailed analysis of youth participation in nine European countries by focusing on socialization processes different modes of participation and the mobilization of youth politics This volume is an indispensable guide to understanding young European s experience and engagement of politics the inequalities that shape young people s political engagement and are sometimes replicated through them and young people s commitment to saving the environment and spreading democratic ideals Based on compelling and extensive research across nine nations this volume makes important advances in key debates on youth politics and provides critical empirical insights into which young people engage influences on young people s politics how young people engage why some young people don t engage and trends across nations The volume succeeds in the herculean task of focusing on specific national contexts while also rendering a comprehensive picture of youth politics and inequality in Europe today

Jennifer Earl Professor of Sociology University of Arizona USA

Forecasts by social scientists of young people s increasingly apathetic stance towards political participation appear to have been misplaced This text drawing data and analysis across and between nine European countries captures the changing nature of political activism by young people It indicates how this is strongly nuanced by factors such as social class and gender identity It also highlights important distinctions between young people's approaches towards more traditional electoral and more contemporary non institutional forms of participation. Critically it illuminates the many ways in which youth political participation has evolved and transformed in recent years. Wider social circumstances and experiences are identified as highly significant in preparing young people for and influencing their levels of participation in both protest oriented action and electoral politics. Howard Williamson, Professor of European Youth Policy, University of South Wales, UK. This book is an incredible guide to understanding the role and sources of inequalities on young people's political involvement. Country specific chapters allow the authors to integrate a large number of the key and most pressing issues regarding young people's relationship to politics in a single volume. Topics range from social mobility and the influence of socioeconomic parental resources and class on young people's practice in the social sphere, the intersection of gender with other sources of inequalities, online participation and its relationship with social inequalities, the impact of harsh economic conditions, the mobilization potential of the environmental cause, to the role of political organizations. Integrating all these pressing dimensions in a common framework and accompanying it with extensive novel empirical evidence is a great achievement and the result is a must read piece for researchers and practitioners aiming to understand the challenges young people face in developing their relationship to politics. Gema García Albacete, Associate Professor of Political Science, University Carlos III, Madrid, Spain.

Young People's Political Participation in Western Europe Gema García Albacete, 2014-10-10. Are young people today politically apathetic? Or are they democratically mature citizens? This book examines several types of involvement to reveal changes in young people's political participation in Europe in recent decades. It uses various concepts of age to compare participation across countries and over time.

Revisiting Youth Political Participation Joerg Forbrig, 2005-01-01. Political Participation of Youth Below Voting Age Barbara Riepl, Helmut Wintersberger, 1999.

Youth political participation Tomaž Deželan, Cristina Bacalzo, Anna Lodeserto, 2023-01-09. Young people's participation is crucial for shaping and transforming democracies. Youth political participation is taking place within a context of democratic transformation including a global decline in the state of democracy, shrinking space for civil society, polarisation of the political and social space, economic crisis and precarity, rapid digitalisation, the impact of the Covid 19 pandemic and most recently war. In this setting we are witnessing a lack of trust in political institutions, an increasing disengagement from the political system and a decline in youth participation in institutional politics. This Youth Knowledge book reminds us that while the context might be changing, young people's participation is crucial for shaping and transforming democracies. Moving beyond the traditional binary of conventional and nonconventional, the authors ask the question: How are young people engaging with democracies in transformation, seeking to understand the ways in which young people are defining their own participation? This volume includes eight chapters ranging from the mapping of young people's involvement in environmental justice movements and climate strikes, dissent and radical kindness, political participation of young refugees in Europe as well as explorations of the understanding of the concepts of liberal democracy youth voice and European citizenship as well as the importance and role of values and the context In addition to the chapters four personal essays written by young people themselves give a glimpse into the ways young people are engaging in political participation to shape their schools communities and Europe but also the broader systems on which our current politics is built Young people s political participation citizenship and relationship with democracy remain a complex topic for youth research policy and practice While this publication does not claim to answer all the questions or represent the realities of all young people across Europe it gives a glimpse into the landscape of youth engagement in a changing world highlighting realities trends and main issues
