

Yoder Wise Test Bank Questions

1. Nursing professionals in the twenty-first century will accomplish most of their work:
- Through teams of internationally prepared professionals.
 - In teams and through group work.
 - Through long-term, secure jobs.
 - In competitive environments and work groups. -

✓ANS: B

The future is about teams and group work. Competition will be out and collaboration will be in. Job security will be out and career options will be in. Our brightest and best may leave more often than they do at present to pursue career options internationally.

TOP: AONE competency: Knowledge of the Health Care Environment

2. Based on studies of workplace environments for nurses and future projections, the workplace of the future will be:
- Less intense because of more technology.
 - About the same as it is now.
 - More intense because of more technology.
 - Fluctuating between intense periods and less intense periods. -

✓ANS: C

Technology will continue to revolutionize health care and contribute to complexity compression. In addition to access to knowledge, electronic records, and current applications of technology, technology will include robotics, which will change how chronic disease can be managed, and bioengineering will make possible interventions that do not yet exist.

3. Which of the following actions is most representative of how health care of the future might be delivered? As a nurse leader, you:
- Refer families who require immediate help to a local food bank. You also work with local agencies and families to establish a mothers collective in which mothers learn about nutrition and prepare low-cost, nutritious meals that are shared with the mothers in the collective.
 - Work together with a local agency to set up a free clinic in which addicts and the homeless can receive free health care and prescriptions for immediate needs.
 - Ensure that individuals who are admitted to your unit are asked about their smoking history and that preoperative and postoperative planning takes into account how smoking will affect status during and after surgery.
 - Address the health of those who are overweight and obese on your unit by ensuring that hospital meals offer nutritious, healthy food -

✓ANS: A

Referral to a food bank addresses the needs of a specific population, while exemplifying an important leadership strength: thinking long-term, acting short-term. The project that
