Year 7 Ancient China Units Of Work:

Writing and Literacy in Early China Feng Li, David Prager Branner, 2011-11-22 The emergence and spread of literacy in ancient human society an important topic for all who study the ancient world and the development of written Chinese is of particular interest as modern Chinese orthography preserves logographic principles shared by its most ancient forms making it unique among all present day writing systems In the past three decades the discovery of previously unknown texts dating to the third century BCE and earlier as well as older versions of known texts has revolutionized the study of early Chinese writing The long term continuity and stability of the Chinese written language allow for this detailed study of the role literacy played in early civilization The contributors to Writing and Literacy in Early China inquire into modes of manuscript production the purposes for which texts were produced and the ways in which they were actually used By carefully evaluating current evidence and offering groundbreaking new interpretations the book illuminates the nature of literacy for scribes and readers

A History of Books in Ancient China Li Chen, 2024-05-15 This book presents a study of the history of ancient Chinese books not only highlighting specific aspects of the ontology of book history such as printing and publishing but also analyzing the internal and external causes of the development of book undertakings from a macro perspective Placing the development of and changes in the history of books in the context of social development it investigates its interaction with politics economy society education and religion especially with the big culture and constructs a book centered history of ancient Chinese culture

Imperial Institutions in Ancient Rome and Early China Michael Loewe, Michael Nylan, T. Corey Brennan, 2025-05-15 Written by the eminent sinologist Michael Loewe and edited for publication by T. Corey Brennan and Michael Nylan this book gives an overview of the considerations and practices of two major world empires that together ruled half of the earth's population in the first centuries BCE ancient Rome and Han China Approaching the historical material with a comparative perspective Loewe examines the strengths and weaknesses and the successes and failures which can be seen in the organisation and government of these two political systems Though each empire was largely ignorant of the other the problems they faced were similar given the rudimentary transportation and communication facilities of the time the high mortality rates and the low levels of literacy Yet each empire ruled its people in distinctly different ways with the Roman empire governed largely by military officials in contrast to the Chinese empire whose administration was well stocked with roughly 130 000 highly trained professionals The ten chapters of this book set out to compare the ways that these two contemporary regimes similar in size and population sought to control human activities and impose a set of regulated discipline over those who were ruled Each chapter concerns the degrees and methods of forming a united people the assumptions that lay behind such attempts the reliance that imperial authority placed on religious practices legal impositions and the structure of institutions and the bases of social cohesion and economic co operation The result is an engaging study of two remarkable empires whose rise and fall are contrasted in a way that deepens our understanding of empire and civilisation Salt Production Techniques in Ancient China ,1993 This is the world's earliest extant work dealing with the salt industry providing information on the technical fiscal administrative social and economic background and its editorial history It includes a complete annotated translation and reproductions of the illustrations Mathematics, Administrative and Economic Activities in Ancient Worlds Cécile Michel, Karine Chemla, 2020-09-29 This book focuses on the ancient Near East early imperial China South East Asia and medieval Europe shedding light on mathematical knowledge and practices documented by sources relating to the administrative and economic activities of officials merchants and other actors It compares these to mathematical texts produced in related school contexts or reflecting the pursuit of mathematics for its own sake to reveal the diversity of mathematical practices in each of these geographical areas of the ancient world Based on case studies from various periods and political economic and social contexts it explores how in each part of the world discussed it is possible to identify and describe the different cultures of quantification and computation as well as their points of contact The thirteen chapters draw on a wide variety of texts from ancient Near East China South East Asia and medieval Europe which are analyzed by researchers from various fields including mathematics history philology archaeology and economics The book will appeal to historians of science economists and institutional historians of the ancient and medieval world and also to Assyriologists Indologists Sinologists and experts on medieval Europe Collaborating to Support All Learners in English, Social Studies, and Humanities Faye Brownlie, Leyton Schnellert, 2009-10-23 How can we help students develop the thinking skills they need to be successful learners How does this relate to deep learning of important concepts How can we engage and support diverse learners in inclusive classrooms where they develop understanding and thinking skills In this book Faye and Leyton explore these questions and offer classroom examples to help busy teachers develop communities where all students learn This book is written by two experienced educators who offer a welcoming and can do approach to the big ideas in education today In this book you will find insightful ways to teach diverse learners e g literature and information circles open ended strategies cooperative learning inquiry curriculum design frameworks e g universal design for learning UDL and backward design assessment for of and as learning lessons to help students develop deep learning and thinking skills in English Social Studies and Humanities excellent examples of theory and practice made accessible real school examples of collaboration teachers working together to create better learning opportunities for their students Authorship and Text-making in Early China Hanmo Zhang, 2018-10-08 This book is a timely response to a rather urgent call to seek an updated methodology in rereading and reappraising early Chinese texts in light of newly discovered early writings For a long time the concept of authorship in the formation and transmission of early Chinese texts has been misunderstood The nominal author who should mainly function as a guide to text formation and interpretation is considered retrospectively as the originator and writer of the text This book illustrates that although some notions about the text as the author's property began to appear in some Eastern Han texts a strict correlation between the author and the text results from later conceptions of literary history Before the modern era there existed a conceptual gap between an author and a writer A pre modern Chinese text could have had both an author and a writer or even multiple authors and multiple writers This work is the first study addressing these issues by more systematically emphasizing the connection of the text the author and the religious and sociopolitical settings in which these issues were embedded It is expected to constitute a palpable contribution to Chinese studies and the discipline of philology in general

Ancient China and its Enemies Nicola Di Cosmo, 2002-02-25 Relations between Inner Asian nomads and Chinese are a continuous theme throughout Chinese history By investigating the formation of nomadic cultures by analyzing the evolution of patterns of interaction along China's frontiers and by exploring how this interaction was recorded in historiography this looks at the origins of the cultural and political tensions between these two civilizations through the first millennium BC The main purpose of the book is to analyze ethnic cultural and political frontiers between nomads and Chinese in the historical contexts that led to their formation and to look at cultural perceptions of others as a function of the same historical process Based on both archaeological and textual sources this 2002 book also introduces a new methodological approach to Chinese frontier history which combines extensive factual data with a careful scrutiny of the motives methods and general conception of history that informed the Chinese historian Ssu ma Ch'ien

Documentation and Argument in Early China Dirk Meyer, 2021-07-05 This study uncovers the traditions behind the formative Classic Sh'ngsh Venerated Documents It is the first to establish these traditions Sh' Documents as a historically evolving practice of thought production By focusing on the literary form of the argument it interprets the Sh' as fluid text material that embodies the ever changing cultural capital of projected conceptual communities By showing how these communities actualised the Sh' according to their changing visions of history and evolving group interests the study establishes that by the Warring States period ca 453-221 BC the Sh' had become a literary genre employed by diverse groups to legitimize their own arguments Through forms of textual performance the Sh' gave even peripheral communities the means to participate in political discourse by conferring their ideas with ancient authority Analysing this dynamic environment of socio political and philosophical change this study speaks to the Early China field as well as to those interested in meaning production and foundational text formation more widely
