Toxic Work Women Workers At Gte Lenkurt Labor And Social Change:

Toxic Work Steve Fox,1992-06 In 1971 when General Telephone and Electric relocated its GTE Lenkurt plant to Albuquerque New Mexico city fathers were elated GTE Lenkurt became the largest manufacturing employer in the state This title uncovers more than 200 GTE workers 95 per cent of them women 70 per cent of them Hispanic each of them had an array of health problems Women in Labor Allison L. Hepler,2000 Early in the twentieth century states and courts began limiting the workplace hours of wage earning women in order to protect them from fatigue and ill health It was felt that a woman s role was to be a mother and that working too many hours in an often unhealthy and dangerous workplace created risks to the performance of that task In the 1970s many Fortune 500 companies began implementing fetal protection policies to prohibit women from working in areas deemed risky to reproductive capacity Again assumptions about motherhood were the driving force behind employment regulations Women in Labor examines how gender norms affected the workplace health of men and women Did the desire to protect women result in a safer workplace for all workers Did it advance or hinder the status of women in the work place In answering these questions Hepler describes a complex network of medical experts state bureaucrats business owners social reformers industrial engineers workers and feminists many with overlapping interests and identities This overlap often resulted in tradeoffs and unintended consequences For instance efforts promoting gender equality sometimes created equal risks for workers whereas emphasizing social realities resulted in job discrimination Reformists efforts to promote the important connection between the home and the industrial environment also allowed an employer to shirk responsibility for worker health The issue of women in the workplace will remain crucial in the twenty first century as workers worldwide struggle to create safer workplaces without sacrificing socioeconomic benefits or the health of women and their children Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Recent Acquisitions Ohio State University. College of Law. Library,1993 National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 Chronicles from the Environmental Justice Frontline J. Timmons Roberts,Melissa M. Toffolon-Weiss,2001-09-24 Chronicles from the Environmental Justice Frontline first published in 1991 provides a rare glimpse of the environmental justice movement as it plays out in four landmark struggles at the end of the twentieth century The book describes the stories of everyday people who have decided to take to the streets to battle what they perceive as injustice the unequal exposure of minorities and the poor to the bads produced by our industrial society In these struggles residents and local state and national environmental and social justice groups are on one side pitted against local and state government representatives and industry on the other By employing historical and theoretical lenses in viewing these struggles the book reveals how situations of environmental injustice are created and how they are resolved These cases bear great similarity to battles occurring across the nation and are setting precedents for national and state agencies as they handle these cases Library Acquisitions List Martin P.
