Fees Must Fall Susan Booysen, 2016-10-01 This book explores the student discontent a year after the start of the 2015 South African FeesMustFall revolt FeesMustFall the student revolt that began in October 2015 was an uprising against lack of access to and financial exclusion from higher education in South Africa More broadly it radically questioned the socio political dispensation resulting from the 1994 social pact between big business the ruling elite and the liberation movement The 2015 revolt links to national and international youth struggles of the recent past and is informed by black consciousness politics and social movements of the international left Yet its objectives are more complex than those of earlier struggles The student movement has challenged the hierarchical top down leadership system of university management and its double speak of professing to act in workers and students interests yet entrenching a regressive system for control and governance University managements while on one level amenable to change have also co opted students into their ranks to create co responsibility for the highly bureaucratised university financial aid that stands in the way of their social revolution This book maps the contours of student discontent a year after the start of the FeesMustFall revolt Student voices dissect colonialism improper compromises by the founders of democratic South Africa feminism worker rights and meaningful education In depth assessments by prominent scholars reflect on the complexities of student activism its impact on national and university governance and offer provocative analyses of the power of the revolt Institutional Plan for Student Fees University of Northern Colorado. Where Do Student Fees Really Go? Nick Hillman, Jim Dickinson, Alice Rubbra, Zach Klamann, 2018 Economics of Tuition Fees. Cost-Benefit Analysis of a Differentiated Tuition Fee System in Selected Ugandan Universities Kibs Boaz Muhanguzi, 2017-01-09 Scientific Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Sociology Knowledge and Information language English abstract Globalization and privatization drive have recently brought many investors into the education sector in Africa Increased competition in provision of university education has led various institutions to adopt various strategies to maximize benefits from their investments The key strategic policy adopted has been a tuition fee discrimination system thought to capture more clients The extent at which this practice has been beneficial to firms and students is what this paper investigates This is done by analyzing costs and benefits of the system Using the contingent valuation method as a Benefit Cost analysis tool and the monopolistic price discrimination theory third degree this paper assesses the costs and benefits derived from a differentiated tuition fee system in Ugandan Universities To achieve this a descriptive correlation approach and a cross sectional sampling design are adopted Purposive and stratified sampling techniques are used in sample selection Using self administered questionnaires and interviews data is collected from respondents in three different colleges schools from four Universities in Uganda Using Pearson s correlation coefficient to analyze the relation between costs and benefits and tuition fee differentiation system the study finds tuition fee differentiation system to have a significant correlation with benefits accrued and an insignificant correlation with costs involved This Implies that investors in Ugandan universities are still benefiting from monopolistic behaviors like tuition fee differentiation This result stands as a warning to potential students for the need to first scrutinize programs they are to join basing on their capabilities and potentials However the result displays a green flag for potential investors in university education The benefits from investment are still higher Report on Tuition Fees Harvard University.
