David W. Gill, 2020-04-14 During the twentieth century theological and religious perspectives have been marginalized if not utterly excluded in many of our colleges and universities The essays in this book argue in different ways for the critical appreciative inclusion of theological and religious perspectives in higher education The contributors believe that even in our secular religiously disestablished era religion and God continue to occupy an important and dynamic role in personal and social life If our colleges and universities are to fulfill their higher aspirations of educating whole persons for the real world in all of its diversity and challenge we need to go bravely against the flow and give God tenure

by external sources of innovation and new knowledge Collaborations between firms and between firms and other organizations as well as the mobility of human capital are strategic processes in order to share and circulate knowledge and competencies They are also key determinants in the creation of new knowledge and innovation and ultimately in growth dynamics The circulation and distribution of knowledge is now a key input in the production of knowledge Knowledge and innovation are understood as the result of collective and interactive processes at the system level and less at the micro level In other words new knowledge production is less and less the result of individualistic behaviours of the firms and much more the effect of explicit and pro active interactions and transactions put in place by local networks of innovators In this perspective economic space is much more defined by the quality of the interactions among actors rather than by their mere technological sectoral or geographical proximity This book brings together new conceptual and empirical contributions and blends the analysis of the technological and geographical spaces in which innovation and knowledge are produced

Longino,2018-06-05 Helen Longino seeks to break the current deadlock in the ongoing wars between philosophers of science and sociologists of science academic battles founded on disagreement about the role of social forces in constructing scientific knowledge While many philosophers of science downplay social forces claiming that scientific knowledge is best considered as a product of cognitive processes sociologists tend to argue that numerous noncognitive factors influence what scientists learn how they package it and how readily it is accepted Underlying this disagreement however is a common assumption that social forces are a source of bias and irrationality Longino challenges this assumption arguing that social interaction actually assists us in securing firm rationally based knowledge This important insight allows her to develop a durable and novel account of scientific knowledge that integrates the social and cognitive Longino begins with a detailed discussion of a wide range of contemporary thinkers who write on scientific knowledge clarifying the philosophical points at issue She then critically analyzes the dichotomous understanding of the rational and the social that characterizes both sides of the science studies stalemate and the social account that she sees as necessary for an epistemology of science that includes the full spectrum of cognitive processes Throughout her account is responsive both to the normative uses of the term knowledge and to the social conditions in which scientific knowledge is produced Building on ideas first advanced in her influential book Science as Social Knowledge Longino brings her account into dialogue with current work in social epistemology and science studies and shows how her critical social approach can help solve a variety of stubborn problems While the book focuses on epistemological concerns related to the sociality of inquiry Longino also takes up its implications for scientific pluralism The social approach she concludes best allows us to retain a meaningful concept of knowledge in the face of theoretical plurality and uncertainty Fuzzy Systems and Knowledge Discovery Lipo Wang,Licheng Jiao,Guanming Shi,Xue Lu,Jing Liu,2006-09-28 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Third International Conference on Fuzzy Systems and Knowledge Discovery FSKD 2006 held in federation with the Second International Conference on Natural Computation ICNC 2006 The book presents 115 revised full papers and 50 revised short papers Coverage includes neural computation quantum computation evolutionary computation DNA computation fuzzy computation granular computation artificial life innovative applications to knowledge discovery finance operations research and more Code of Federal Regulations ,1980 Special edition of the Federal Register containing a codification of documents of general applicability and future effect with ancillaries Advances in Information Systems Development Gabor Magyar,Gabor Knapp,Gregory Wojtkowski,Jože Zupancic,2007-08-28 This monograph details the proceedings of the 15th International Conference on Information Systems Development ISD is progressing rapidly continually creating new challenges for the professionals involved New concepts
