Edible Memory Jennifer A. Jordan, 2015-04-14 Jordan begins with the heirloom tomato inquiring into its botanical origins in South America and its culinary beginnings in Aztec cooking to show how the homely and homegrown tomato has since grown to be an object of wealth and taste as well as a popular symbol of the farm to table and heritage foods movements She shows how a shift in the 1940s away from open pollination resulted in a narrow range of hybrid tomato crops But memory and the pursuit of flavor led to intense seed saving efforts increasing in the 1970s as local produce and seeds began to be recognized as living windows to the past Vegetable Kingdom Bryant

Food Justice Undone Hanna Garth, 2026-02-03 Breaks open the privilege and promise of food justice to envision a radical liberatory future Food justice activists have worked to increase access to healthy food in low income communities of color across the United States Yet despite their best intentions they often perpetuate food access inequalities and racial stereotypes Hanna Garth shows how the movement has been affected by misconceptions and assumptions about residents as well as by unclear definitions of justice and what it means to be healthy Focusing on broad structures and microlevel processes Garth reveals how power dynamics shape social justice movements in particular ways Drawing on twelve years of ethnographic research Garth examines what motivates people from more affluent majority white areas of the city to intervene in South Central Los Angeles She argues that the concepts of food justice and healthy food operate as racially coded language reinforcing the idea that health problems in low income Black and Brown communities can be solved through individual behavior rather than structural change Food Justice Undone explores the stakes of social justice and the possibility of multiracial coalitions working toward a better future
