Business History Philip Scranton, Patrick Fridenson, 2013-04-15 A vigorous call for rethinking the field of business history Business history needs a shake up Philip Scranton and Patrick Fridenson argue as many businesses go global and cultural contexts become critical Reimagining Business History prods practitioners to take new approaches to entrepreneurial intentions company scale corporate strategies local infrastructure employee well being use of resources and long term environmental consequences During the past half century the history of American business became an unusually active and rewarding field of scholarship partly because of the primacy of postwar American capital at home and abroad and the rise of a consumer culture but also because of the theoretical originality of Alfred D Chandler In a field long given over to banal company histories and biographies of tycoons Chandler took the subject seriously enough to ask about the large patterns and causes of corporate success Chandler and his students found the richest material for theorizing about the course of business history in large companies and their institutional structures and cultures Meantime Scranton and others found smaller firms those specializing in batch work as opposed to mass produced goods far closer to the norm and more telling Scranton and Fridenson believe that the time has come for a sweeping rethinking of the field its materials and the kinds of questions its practitioners should be asking How can this field develop in an age of global markets growing information technology and diminishing resources A transnational collaboration between two senior scholars Reimagining Business History offers direction in forty four short pithy essays The Business of Food Gary Allen, Ken Albala, 2007-10-30 The business of food and drink is for better and worse the business of our nation and our planet and to most consumers how it works remains largely a mystery This encyclopedia takes readers as consumers behind the scenes of the food and drink industries The contributors come from a wide range of fields and the scope of this encyclopedia is broad covering from food companies and brands to the environment health science and technology culture finance and more The more than 150 essay entries also cover those issues that have been and continue to be of perennial importance Historical context is emphasized and the focus is mainly on business in the United States Most entries include Further Reading The frontmatter includes an Alphabetical List of Entries and a Topical List of Entries to allow the reader to quickly find subjects of interest Numerous cross references in the entries and blind entries provide other search strategies The person and subject index is another in depth search tool Sample entries Advertising Agribusiness Altria Animal Rights Betty Crocker Celebrity Chefs Chain Restaurants Commodities Exchange Cooking Technology Culinary Tourism Eco terrorism Environmental Protection Agency Ethnic Food Business European Union Flavors and Fragrances Food Safety Food Service Industry Genetic Engineering Internet Labor and Labor Unions Marketing to Children McDonald s Meat Packing North American Free Trade Agreement Nutrition Labeling Organic Foods Poultry Industry Slow Food SPAM Television Trader Joe s Tupperware TV Dinners Whole Foods Williams Sonoma Wine Business

Bathroom Battlegrounds Alexander K. Davis,2020-01-28 Today s debates about transgender inclusion and public restrooms may seem unmistakably contemporary but they have a surprisingly long and storied history in the United States one that concerns more than mere potty politics Alexander K Davis takes readers behind the scenes of two hundred years worth of conflicts over the existence separation and equity of gendered public restrooms documenting at each step how bathrooms have been entangled with bigger cultural matters the importance of the public good the reach of institutional inclusion the nature of gender difference and above all the myriad privileges of social status Chronicling the debut of nineteenth century comfort stations twentieth century mandates requiring equal but separate men s and women s rooms and twenty first century uproar over laws like North Carolina s bathroom bill Davis reveals how public restrooms are far from marginal or unimportant social spaces Instead they are and always have been consequential sites in which ideology institutions and inequality collide

The New Breed Kate Darling, 2021-04-20 For readers of The Second Machine Age or The Soul of an Octopus a bold exciting exploration of how building diverse kinds of relationships with robots inspired by how we interact with animals could be the key to making our future with robot technology work There has been a lot of ink devoted to discussions of how robots will replace us and take our jobs But MIT Media Lab researcher and technology policy expert Kate Darling argues just the opposite suggesting that treating robots with a bit of humanity more like the way we treat animals will actually serve us better From a social legal and ethical perspective she shows that our current ways of thinking don't leave room for the robot technology that is soon to become part of our everyday routines Robots are likely to supplement rather than replace our own skills and relationships So if we consider our history of incorporating animals into our work transportation military and even families we actually have a solid basis for how to contend with this future A deeply original analysis of our technological future and the ethical dilemmas that await us The New Breed explains how the treatment of machines can reveal a new understanding of our own history our own systems and how we relate not just to nonhumans but also to one another
