Nilges, 2013-11-09 All software developers use languages which are the fundamental tool of the trade Despite curiosity about how languages work few developers actually understand how Unfortunately most texts on language and compiler development are hard to digest written from academic platforms for use in college level computer science programs On the other hand Build Your Own NET Language and Compiler demystifies compiler and language development and makes the subjects palatable for all programmers This practical book presents techniques that you can apply to everyday work You ll learn to add scripts and macro languages to your applications add runtime expression evaluation to their applications and generate code immediately Further you will learn parsing techniques which are essential to extract information from any structured form of datalike text files user input XML or HTML As a bonus the book includes a complete QuickBasic compatible compiler with source code that works The compiler illustrates the books techniques and acts as a versatile NET language      Pathways to Institutional Improvement with Information Technology in Educational Management C.J.

Patrick Nolan, A. Fung, Margaret Brown, 2006-04-11 New Zealand schools have experienced unprecedented change during the last decade Radical restructuring of the frameworks for both curriculum and qualifications followed a movement towards self management in 1989 The curriculum framework consisting of seven essential learning areas has been progressively introduced with completion not expected until 2002 The new Qualifications Framework based on unit standards was launched in 1994 The introduction of unit standards signalled an emphatic movement towards the use of internal assessment for awarding qualifications at the senior secondary school level Each course had unit standards defined which described the outcomes and the performance criteria that would be used to determine whether or not the standard had been achieved Approximately five to eight standards would be used for each full year course and each standard had a number of credits associated with it The plan which has since been modified was for these credits to contribute to a National Certificate of Educational Achievement at years 12 and 13 and other subject specific National Certificates Secondary schools were faced with the task of recording and reporting 1 unit standard results to the New Zealand Qualifications Authority This by itself was not a major issue as the significant suppliers of CSIS had modules available which satisfied this need At this time a model was being presented to school audiences demonstrating how the recording reporting and evaluation of assessment data relating to the curriculum framework could be relatively straight forward IF there was a common assessment currency across the school This model was converted into software form for demonstration purposes
