Engaging Geographies Juliana Mansvelt, Russell Prince, Michael Roche, 2014-06-19 This volume draws together three connected strands of research dealing with landscapes lifecourses and mobilities and will be of interest to social and cultural geographers and those in allied social science fields particularly those with interests in the circulation of people and policy at a number of scales and locations Landscapes might be considered to be a very mainstream geographical theme though we treat them in an adventurous way by concentrating on infrastructure and ideology art and resistance as well as through a more mainstream exploration of multifunctional landscapes Attention to diverse aspects of the lifecourse allows us to understand the social spatial and structural complexities which characterise social relationships from birth to death Mobilities likewise provide an opportunity to draw on some concepts from contemporary social and cultural geography relating to the movement of people and ideas over time and across space Although much of the substantive content has a New Zealand and Australian orientation it is presented in a way that engages with broader international literatures

Terminally Ill Melissa Yi, Melissa Yuan-Innes, 2014-02-01 WHEN HOUDINI MEETS MURDER Magic Dr Hope Sze steers clear of magic But when Elvis the Escape King chains and nails
