Women's History in Global Perspective Bonnie G. Smith, 2005 The New World History Ross E. Dunn, Laura J.

Mitchell, Kerry Ward, 2016-08-23 The New World History is a comprehensive volume of essays selected to enrich world history teaching and scholarship in this rapidly expanding field. The forty-four articles in this book take stock of the history evolving literature and current trajectories of new world history. These essays together with the editors' introductions to thematic chapters encourage educators and students to reflect critically on the development of the field and to explore concepts, approaches, and insights valuable to their own work. The selections are organized in ten chapters that survey the history of the movement, the seminal ideas of founding thinkers and today's practitioners, changing concepts of world historical space and time, comparative methods, environmental history, the big history movement, globalization debates over the meaning of Western power, and ongoing questions about the intellectual premises and assumptions that have shaped the field.

A Global History of Modern Historiography Georg Iggers, Q. Edward Wang, Supriya Mukherjee, 2016-09-01 The first book on historiography to adopt a global and comparative perspective on the topic, A Global History of Modern Historiography looks not just at developments in the West but also at the other great historiographical traditions in Asia, the Middle East, and elsewhere around the world over the course of the past two and a half centuries. This second edition contains fully updated sections on Latin American and African historiography, discussion of the development of global history, environmental history, and feminist and gender history in recent years, and new coverage of Russian historical practices. Beginning in the mid-eighteenth century, the authors analyse historical currents in a changing political, social, and cultural context, examining both the adaptation and modification of the Western influence on historiography and how societies outside Europe and America found their own ways in the face of modernization and globalization. Supported by online resources, including a selection of excerpts from key historiographical texts, this book offers an up-to-date account of the status of historical writing in the global era and is essential reading for all students of modern historiography.

Women's Activism Francisca de Haan, 2013 Women's Activism brings together twelve innovative contributions from feminist historians from around the world to look at how women have always found ways to challenge or fight inequalities and hierarchies as individuals in international women's organizations, as political leaders, and in global forums such as the United Nations. The book is divided into three parts. Part one brings together four essays about organized women's activism across borders. The chapters in part two focus on the variety of women's activism and explore women's activism in different national and political contexts. And part three explores the changing relationships and inequalities among women. This book addresses women's internationalism and struggle for their rights in the international arena; it deals with racism and colonialism in Australia, India, and Europe; women's movements and political activism in South Africa, Eastern Bengal, Bangladesh, the United Kingdom, Japan, and France. Essential reading for anyone interested in women's history and the history of activism more generally.

Bodies in Contact Antoinette Burton, Tony Ballantyne, 2005-01-31 This reader on world history emphasizes the centrality of raced sexed and classed bodies as sites on which imperial power was imagined and exercised in order to examine the effects of global politics capital and culture on everyday spaces and local c Schooling Diaspora Karen M. Teoh,2018 Schooling Diaspora looks into the motivations and strategies of missionaries colonial authorities and Chinese reformists and revolutionaries for educating girls as well as the impact that this education had on identity formation among overseas Chinese women and larger society Gender and Politics in Kuwait Meshal Al-Sabah,2013-07-11 The role of women in politics in the Gulf is a much debated and often little understood subject in the West In Gender and Politics in Kuwait the author sheds new light on the struggle of Kuwaiti women for political participation examining both the positions women hold in society and politics and the discourses surrounding feminism and civil rights He charts the history of women and their contribution to the Kuwaiti state from independence and the writing of the constitution in the 1960s through the Iraqi occupation in 1990 to the struggle for the right to vote and stand for election in the twenty first century Drawing on the experiences of women in a range of roles in Kuwaiti society including government education employment civil society and the media this is a comprehensive examination of gender politics and its impact in the Middle East
